President States Reserve Plan Is "Prudent, Wise"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — President Johnson says the plan to abolish the army reserves is "prudent and wise." The reserve officers association demands a thorough investigation of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plan to do away with the reserves by merging some units into the national guard and placing the rest on inactive status. The association said the air force reserve will be the next to go.

McNamara's proposal—based at saving 150 million dollars yearly by abolishing units which the defense secretary says are no longer needed—faces some skirmishes on Capitol Hill. Congress has control over such proposals at least to the extent of providing money to carry them out.

Plans involving army national guard changes also are under discussion. Secretary of the Army Stephen Ailes said last night that current planning concepts call for the six high-priority and two special-purpose divisions of the guard to be converted into a division base and one brigade. But he said this was a concept and not a firm plan, to be considered by the army in conjunction with reserve and national guard authorities.

Some congressional criticism of the reserve plan has been sharp and two congressional inquiries have already been promised in the wake of Saturday's announcement by McNamara.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D., La., of the house armed services subcommittee on the reserves and national guard, said McNamara "demonstrated his contempt for congress" by issuing the plan.

Chairman John Stennis, D., Miss., of the senate armed services preparedness subcommittee, said he'll do his utmost to maintain the reserve force and expressed the belief congress must approve the plan before it can go into effect.

Both men said their subcommittees will hold hearings on the matter next year but no dates were set.

Johnson's public endorsement of McNamara's decision was disclosed in an exchange of letters with Rear Adm. Edgar C. Roedder, reserve officers association president, who had asked Johnson to reverse it.

The President's reply was dated Dec. 12 and made public by the VOA yesterday. It read in part:

"I am sure you share my belief in economy in government and maximum combat readiness of our forces, and I know that you will agree — when you are fully acquainted with the nature of the realignment — that this move is both prudent and wise."

Rail Unions Won't Strike Before Jan. 1

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP) — Three shop craft unions made known today there will not be any nationwide railroad strike until after Jan. 1.

Alex Elson, lawyer for the Machinists, Electric Workers and Sheet Metal Workers unions, made the announcement in U. S. district court.

Elson told Judge Joseph Sam Perry he had been authorized to state there "will not be a strike until after the first of the year."

The unions last week had set a strike for 6 a.m. Tuesday that would have idled more than 90 per cent of the railroad traffic at a time pre-Christmas travel, mail and merchandise shipments are at a peak.

The rail lines hurried into court and sought a temporary order and an injunction to halt the walkout. Lawyers for the carriers had argued that a work stoppage would cost the railroads more than 36 million dollars a day.

General Snow Storm Hits Magic Valley

A general snow storm was reported across Magic Valley Monday starting early in the morning.

Though the wind was blowing, no roads were reported clogged with snow in the valley. A rash of accidents was reported in several cities around the valley after the snow started falling.

In Richfield the new snow started falling early this morning and there were two and one-half inches on the ground at noon. It was 10 degrees above zero in Richfield Friday and Saturday nights.

Gooding reported cold and the wind was blowing. The roads are snow covered and slick in the area. Carey has about eight inches of snow on the ground with the new snow today.

According to a spokesman at the Idaho Youth Ranch, heavy snow was falling in the Rupert area and the wind was blowing, but no damage had been reported.

Snow started falling about 6:15 a.m. in Twin Falls and continued steadily until about 1 p.m. About two to three inches of snow were reported on the ground at that time.

Some fog was reported in valley towns.

RECOMMENDS EXTENSION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 14 (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant recommended to the U.N. security council today that the U.N. peacekeeping force on Cyprus be extended for another three months.

Solon Has Formula for School Funds

POCATELLO, Dec. 14 (AP)—State Sen. Perry Swisher, R., Bannock, has a school fund distribution formula drafted by Dr. Raymond Berry of the University of Idaho that would pump more money into poor schools and eliminate inequities that now exist.

But he said adoption of the formula would mean that the state would have to increase its appropriation for the school foundation program.

"Ideally," said Swisher, "the new approach would require 70 million dollars of state funds for school equalization to assure an expenditure of $450 per child, with the state contributing $325 of the $450.

"The 1963 appropriation was only 40 million dollars, and very few legislators and school leaders expect such a colossal jump," Swisher said, "but Berry contends that a good formula will work, with minor alterations, regardless of the amount."

Swisher said the Berry formula, drafted for the State Trustees association, was approved by a majority of those attending last week's meeting on education called by Rep. Frank Hirschi, R., Star Lake, who headed the house education committee in the 1963 legislative session.

"The important thing," Swisher said, "was that this meeting and prior work of the education committees created a degree of communication among the school areas that did not exist."

GETTING TOYS ready for the annual "Toys for Joy" Boy Scout drive for the needy children are from left, Ronald Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Bird and David Marsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Marsh. Goldwater Names 4 Potential Presidential Contenders in '68

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater pointed today to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Govs. Mark O. Hatfield, George Romney and William W. Scranton as potential contenders for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination. He said he thinks that as of now Nixon "has the biggest hand upon the wheel." For himself, the beaten GOP nominee shunned the role of national party leader and ruled out another race for the White House. He said he will be "a working member" of the party.

Goldwater, in a copyright interview with U.S. News and World report, defended GOP National Chairman Dean Burch, insisted his landslide loss to President Johnson did not cripple the conservative movement and declared his presidential bid was over before it really began.

He said only former President Dwight D. Eisenhower could have beaten Johnson for the Republicans.

"Frankly," he said, "I think that I was beaten July 15." That was the day the Republican national convention nominated him for the White House.

Goldwater said the whole campaign "was run on fear of me," and that fear was planted before he was nominated.

The Arizona senator said the Republican challengers painted "a caricature of Goldwater," depicting him as a trigger-happy man and a foe of the Social Security system.

"This thing started in the primaries — and, try as I would, it could not be erased," he said.

"The only thing that I think might have been done could have been done by those in the Republican party who first started it," he said.

Goldwater blamed Romney and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller — "not Scranton so much because Scranton pitched in." The Pennsylvania governor campaigned for the national ticket.

Power Firms Voice Reactions to Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UPI)—Officials of private power companies are voicing a mixed reaction to a suggestion that nationwide networks of electric power lines could save consumers 11 billion dollars a year. A public power spokesman, general manager Clyde T. Ellis of the National Rural Electric Cooperative association, said any such cost reduction would depend on the willingness of private companies to cooperate.

"This is a concept which most of the commercial companies have steadfastly refused to consider," Ellis said.

The suggestion was made Saturday by Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the federal power commission (FPC). It was based on a three-year survey of national power systems and needs.

Swidler said the report constituted a set of guidelines and goals for the power industry rather than a recommendation for a national power grid under federal control. But he said nationwide coordination of power systems would cut the average cost of electricity by 07 per cent.

The report was drawn up with industry help. But Walker L. Cisler, president of the Edison Electric institute, said the FPC failed to take into account the "inevitable effects of continued inflation."

Cisler also said he doubted that any such savings as that visualized

One Section Of Rights Act Is Upheld

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — The supreme court upheld the public accommodations section of the 1964 civil rights act today in a case involving the Heart of Atlanta motel.

The tribunal ruled in the Atlanta action as the first case on that section of the new law.

The court also upheld the public accommodations section applied to a Birmingham, Ala., restaurant.

Justice Tom C. Clark delivered the court's main opinion.

Moreton Rolleston, jr., Atlanta attorney and an official of the motel corporation, filed suit in U. S. district court in Atlanta to block enforcement of the law within two hours after it was signed by President Johnson on July 2.

Three judges in the district court upheld the public accommodations section in a July 21 ruling and Rolleston appealed to the highest tribunal. The supreme court heard arguments on the appeal on the first day of its new term, Oct. 5. Usually no argument are heard on opening day, but the issue was given a hurried hearing.

Car Tag Sales Total 4,500

At noon Monday it was reported from the Twin Falls county assessors office that 4,500 passenger license plates had been sold and 213 for trucks.

The Glass insurance agency in Buhl reported a total of 680 passenger vehicle licenses and 54 truck licenses had been sold.

Majority of Idaho Legislators Believe Changes in State Tax Laws Are Needed

BOISE, Dec. 14 (AP) — A big majority of Idaho legislators believe that changes in tax laws are needed to make the state a more pleasant home for business and industry.

Their replies to an Associated Press questionnaire suggest that the 1965 legislature may consider a long list of measures.

Three out of every four who replied said they favor changes to improve the business climate, and most listed tax revision in either general or specific terms.

One of the major arguments for a sales tax has been that it would make possible reduction of income and property taxes, and encourage outside industry to consider locating in Idaho.

Most of the other suggestions also involve property tax reduction.

They include elimination of personal property tax, elimination or reduction of the business inventory tax, establishment of uniform real property assessments ratios and revision of the freeport law.

The least controversial change might be the proposal to eliminate a provision of the law that requires assessment of all property at 100 per cent of full cash value. It is ignored with property assessed at considerably less, but is considered a red flag of danger to business thinking of moving to Idaho.

Many lawmakers suggested more than one change. Rep. H. Ferd Koch, R., Ada, for example, said he favors equalized assessment, an end of the 100 per cent provision, an end to the inventory tax, and lower property tax.

Elimination of inventory tax was also endorsed by Reps. Orval Hansen, R., Bonneville; Al Joslyn, D., Elmore; Karl Klinger, R., Madison; Don Maynard, D., Bonner, and Sen. Harry Hart, R., Clark.

Sen. Ray Rigby, D., Madison, suggested a business exemption from the state property tax, and revision of corporate income tax provisions.

Rep. Jack Carey, R., Bonneville, said the state might consider a law permitting cities to sell revenue bonds to build and lease industrial sites.

He said the freeport law should be changed to eliminate a provision requiring that manufactured goods to be shipped outside the state must be held in a bonded warehouse to qualify for tax exemption.

Also suggesting freeport revision were Reps. Tommy Terrell, D., Bannock, Fred Walton, D., Camas, and Sens. Perry Swisher, R., Bannock, and Harn, and Sen. J. Burns Beal, R., Butte.

Sentiment for equalizing property assessments was voiced by Sen. Jack Wood, D., Bonneville; Rep. Harold Agee, R., Ada, Rep. Lyle Cobbs, R., Ada, and Hansen, who said a realistic assessment standard should be adopted.

Rusk Confers With De Gaulle; Nuclear Plan Is Discussed

PARIS, Dec. 14 (UPI)—U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred with President Charles de Gaulle today on a wide range of issues including an Allied multilateral nuclear force (MLF) which the French leader opposes. The talk lasted one and one-half hours—a half hour longer than scheduled. Rusk told newsmen afterward that he brought De Gaulle President Johnson's "very cordial personal greetings." Asked if he expected a Johnson-De Gaulle meeting in the near future, Rusk said "this didn't come up in the conversation."

U. S. officials said Rusk assured De Gaulle that the United States is not seeking to launch an offensive against France over MLF or to isolate it from its allies.

They said the assurance was one of the main purposes of Rusk's visit.

"We had a very friendly and frank discussion," Rusk said. "This is the type of meeting that is extremely helpful among allies."

Later, after returning to the U. S. embassy, he said it was "the sort of talk that takes place between two close allies. I thoroughly enjoyed the conversation."

Poland Seeks Meet On Europe's Security

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 14 (UPI)—Poland called today for an all-European conference, including the United States and the Soviet Union, to study the problem of Europe's security. Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki, in a policy speech to the general assembly, suggested that the powers of the Warsaw treaty and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization set up the security talks. Shortly after Rapacki spoke, Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh warned that the cold war truce "seems to be fading out" and there is danger of an East-West hot war.

For the first time in 15 years, the Indian delegation made no mention of seating Peking's representatives, although it will vote to give China's U. N. place to the communists. Instead, Swaran Singh unleashed a new attack on Red China.

"The deterioration of the situation in Southeast Asia, and the emergence of new conflicts in the Mediterranean, the heart of Africa and, indeed on our own borders, are each of them capable of escalation to which might ultimately lead to a general conflagration," the Indian said in referring to the cold war "fade-out."

While the assembly proceeded with its annual policy debate this morning, delegates awaited this afternoon's security council meeting in which the United States was expected to join Belgium in defense of the Congo rescue operation.

Ernesto Che Guevara, Fidel Castro's right hand man in the Cuban government, was in the assembly hall again today. As a result of last Friday's disorders, in which a bazooka shell was fired at the U. N. headquarters while anti-Castro pickets demonstrated on the street, security precautions remained tight.

The United Arab Republic and Great Britain will add their voices to the debate on whether the Western powers' action in Stanleyville last month was interference in the Congo's internal affairs or a humanitarian action to save the lives of white hostages.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak last Friday accused spokesmen for several African nations of having expressed before the council "a feeling of defiance and mistrust and, I would add, almost hatred which had been so heatedly denounced and fought against."

Eggs

RUPERT, Dec. 14—Apparently someone is going into the egg business—the easy way.

According to Minidoka county sheriff's office someone took about 372 dozen eggs from Harvey Hollinger, Paul, sometime Sunday morning and some cash.

Officers said they believe there were two thieves and they entered the hen house by breaking out a window.

Also taken were some baskets and steel carriers that hold the eggs.

Molesters Attempt to Lure Children

At least three attempts to molest school children or lure them into automobiles Monday brought a warning from Ernest A. Ragland, superintendent of the Twin Falls school system.

The warning was directed at parents with children in the lower grades. The superintendent said that within the last couple of weeks there have been at least three attempts by unknown individuals to molest youngsters. The attempt either took the form of personal contact, or indecent exposure or of an offer of a ride in an automobile.

Ragland said the most recent approaches were made among students who attend the Lincoln or Morningside grade schools.

School principals, he said, are aware of the situation and teachers have been urged to be on the lookout for any suspicious circumstances involving school youngsters.

"We urge all parents to tell their children that they should accept no rides with strangers and that they should not stop and talk on invitation of people they do not know," Ragland said. "We have noticed an increase in this sort of thing during the past two weeks and all school administrators and teachers are aware of the situation. The police have also been notified."

Reclamation Group Opens State Parley

BOISE, Dec. 14 (AP) — Idaho was urged today to take the "initiative" and create a state water plan to develop the state's foremost natural resource.

William S. Holden, Idaho Falls attorney who headed the governor's water study committee that resulted in creation of such an agency, said all Western reclamation states "must adjust their sights and face up to the realities of changing times."

Holden was the speaker at a luncheon today at the Idaho Reclamation association meeting. The meeting was held adjacent to tomorrow's opening water conference sponsored by the University of Idaho.

Holden said Idahoans should bear in mind that "interstate compacts are not a substitute for a state water plan."

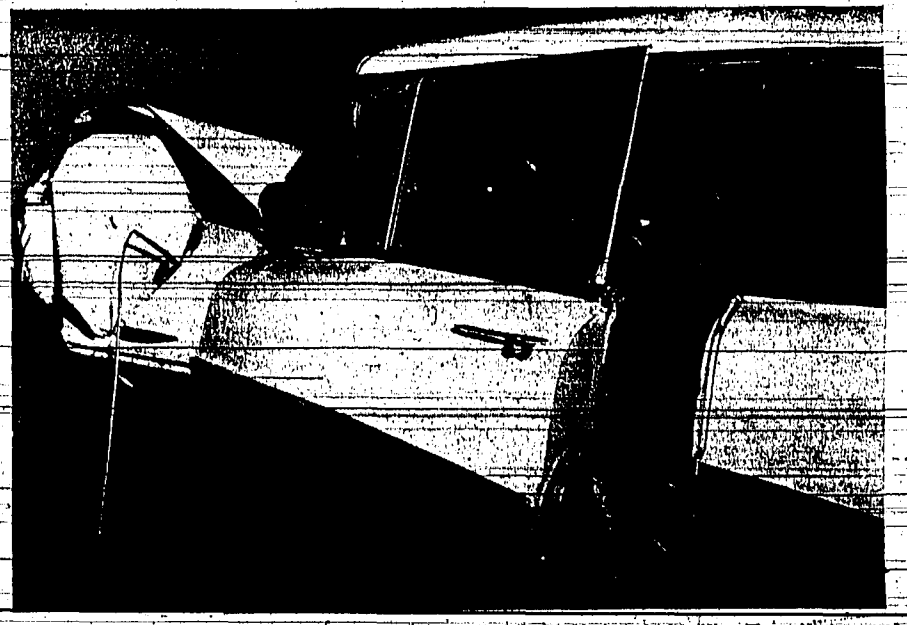
Moreland Nelson, snow survey supervisor for the soil conservation service, outlined a new discovery for snow measurement called the "pillow." He explained this was a bag about 12 feet across connected to a standpipe that more accurately measures snow depth, snow melt and water content through the elevation of liquids up the pipe.

Harold T. Nelson, regional director for the bureau of reclamation, was the speaker planned at tonight's banquet.

Duke of Windsor Enters Hospital

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 14 (AP) — The Duke of Windsor arrived in Houston today to begin medical tests that are expected to show a need for arterial surgery.

A reception committee headed by C. Peter Hope, the British consul general, met the duke and duchess as they arrived at the Union railroad station from New York City.



A TWIN FALLS woman, Mrs. Steve Tipton, 531 Buchanan street, was hospitalized Sunday after this car, a 1957 Buick, crossed the curb, knocked down a concrete post and struck the wall of the Washington school building. The accident occurred at the intersection of Addison avenue east and Blue Lakes boulevard north. See story on page 5. (Times-News photo)

Ailment Is Fatal for Mrs. F. Hitt

BURLEY, Dec. 14—Mrs. Fren Lloyd Hitt, 65, died Monday at Cassia Memorial hospital of a heart ailment.

She was born Jan. 4, 1899, at Spanish Fork, Utah. She came to Idaho with her parents in 1912 and settled in Malta where she lived until 1952 when she moved to Burley and has resided there since.

She attended school in Spanish Fork and Malta. On Feb. 7, 1917 she was married to John C. Hitt at Albion. She was a member of the LDS church and the Cassia chapter of the American war mothers.

Survivors include her husband; six sons and one foster son, Jack B. Hitt, Ed A. Hitt, both Stockton, Calif., James G. Hitt, Declo, Jerry E. Hitt, Thomas L. Hitt and Dennis C. Hitt, all Burley, and Clarence Coral Stone; three daughters, Mrs. Fren L. Adams, Malta, Mrs. Molly Siped, Snowville, Utah, and Mrs. Hellen Buttars, Burley; two brothers, John Lloyd, Los Angeles, Calif., and Max Lloyd, Salt Lake City; four sisters, Mrs. James Scott, Jennie Lloyd, both Salt Lake City, Mrs. Eleanor Rasmussen, Rupert, and Mrs. Erma Abbott, Jerome; 18 grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by one son.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Malta LDS ward chapel by Bishop Harvey Wight. Concluding rites will be held in the Malta cemetery. Friends may call at the Payne mortuary Wednesday afternoon and evening and at the place of services one hour prior to the services.

Cancer Takes L. Lamphear In Jerome

JEROME, Dec. 14 — Leonard E. Lanphear, 71, died at St. Benedict's hospital of a three-month illness from cancer.

He was born March 28, 1893, in Big Timber, Mont., and moved to Nevada in 1907 from Wyoming. He married Rebecca Cullum Jan. 22, 1938, in Sparks, Nev. He served as district manager for the Farmers Insurance company in Elko, Nev., for 24 years. He worked for several years at timekeeper and clerk for the Western Pacific railroad.

He retired in 1961 and came to Jerome in August 1963. Mr. Lanphear was a member of the LDS church and also a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge in Nevada.

Survivors include his widow; four sons, the Rev. Leonard Lanphear, jr., a missionary in China, the Rev. Richard Lanphear, Spokane, Wash., the Rev. Howard Lanphear, Vancouver, Wash., and Maj. Philip Lanphear, Baltimore, Md.; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Wilson, Hood River, Ore., and Mrs. Ella Morse, Edgmont, S.D.; 18 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Jerome 3rd ward LDS chapel by Bishop Grant Humphries. Concluding rites will be conducted in the Jerome cemetery. Friends may call at the Hove funeral chapel Tuesday night and Wednesday and until 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Rusk

was something most unusual for De Gaulle, who keeps his appointments with military precision.

Meanwhile, official American sources said today that creation of an Atlantic Nuclear Force (ANF) now under discussion by NATO allies could lead to a similar operation in the Far East and Middle East.

President Johnson was reported to have promised British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in Washington last week to "consider" ways of assuming Britain's obligations east of Suez if Britain puts its entire force of nuclear bombers and submarines into the ANF.

Wilson had proposed the ANF, composed of seaborne, airborne and land-based units, as an alternative to the Multilateral Nuclear Force (MLF) proposed by the U. S., which would staff 25 ships with mixed-manned NATO personnel and arm them with Polaris missiles.

The American sources said that one way to protect interests in the Far and Middle East would be to create an Allied nuclear force in that area utilizing America's vast nuclear power there.

Rusk arrived yesterday to head an American delegation to the three-day NATO ministerial council meeting beginning Tuesday. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara flew to Paris today from Washington to join the talks.

Rusk conceded yesterday that disagreements existed within the alliance, but he said they were over "secondary matters" and cited the success of NATO in solving major problems.

The Johnson administration, he said, will pursue the bipartisan foreign policy maintained by the United States since World war II.

"That means full commitment to the security of the NATO area and full assistence upon the rights and obligations which became ours as a result of World war II," Rusk said.

U.S. Develops Fast Helicopter

BURBANK, Calif., Dec. 14 (UPI) — The army disclosed yesterday that it has flown a Lockheed winged helicopter at a speed of 243 miles per hour, the fastest known speed of any rotocraft.

Pilot of the 4,500-pound XH51 — a compound helicopter was Lockheed engineering test pilot Donald Segner. The speed test was conducted off the Southern California coast during the current evaluation program sponsored by the U. S. army transportation research command, Ft. Eustis, Va.

Segner said the XH51A used only two-thirds of the available thrust of its auxiliary jet engine in reaching the 243-mph speed and that he felt it could have gone faster.

Mrs. West Is Taken By Death

BURLEY, Dec. 14 — Mrs. Martha L. West, 90, died Sunday at the home of her daughter in Rupert.

She was born Feb. 1, 1874, in Coffee county, Ala. She attended school in Alabama and in 1886 moved with her parents to Colorado. She was married to Erastus West Dec. 25, 1893, at Stanford, Colo. Their marriage was later solemnized in the Salt Lake City LDS temple.

She and her husband moved with their family to Emmett near the turn of the century. She had lived in several area of Idaho since that time. She lived in Rupert for 10 years and has been a resident of Burley for the past 26 years.

She was a member of the LDS church and had served as a relief society president for 10 years as well as a Sunday school teacher and a relief society teacher.

Survivors include two sons, Ralph West, Springdale area, and Roy West, Salt Lake City; two daughters, Florence West, California, and Mrs. Albert (Mentta) Harrison, Rupert; and one brother, Arland R. Wilkins, Rupert; 12 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the Burley LDS Third-Sixth ward chapel by Bishop Councilor Gaylord Harward. Concluding rites will be conducted in the Riverside cemetery, Heyburn. Friends may call at the Payne mortuary Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday until time of service.

Eclipse

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (UPI) — An hour-long total eclipse of the moon will occur Friday night and, weather permitting in individual localities, will be visible throughout North and South America.

The moon will be almost half-way up in the sky when it starts to enter the Earth's dark inner shadow, called the umbra, at 7:50 p.m. EST.

The shadow will completely cover the lunar disk from 9:07 to 10:07 p.m. and the eclipse will finally end at 11:15 p.m.

The previous total eclipse visible in this country was last June 24.

Goldwater

Goldwater said no Republican who was mentioned for the nomination during the primary days could have beaten Johnson. "I don't know of any other one that could have gotten as many states as I got," he said. Goldwater carried six.

Johnson, he said, refused to discuss the issues in his campaign — and used the full muscle of the federal government.

"It wasn't a case of the Republican party running against the Democratic party," he said. "It was the Republican party against the federal government."

Goldwater said he does not think the party would choose him to run again for the White House. "I think in all fairness somebody else should have a go at it next time," he said.

"If I ever ran for an office, it would be for the Senate," Goldwater said.

Scanning the Republican future, Goldwater said in 1968 "I don't think you can ignore governors like Hatfield in Oregon."

"Certainly Romney would figure, I think Nixon, as of now, has the biggest hand upon the wheel.

"You have what I consider to be the great wealth of the Republican party in the House of Representatives," he added. "This is the real meat of the Republican party."

Goldwater mentioned Reps. Gerald R. Ford, jr., of Michigan, John J. Rhodes of Arizona, Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri, Melvin R. Laird and John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin and Bob Wilson of California.

As for Burch, Goldwater said he believes his hand-picked party chairman will withstand pressure from moderate and liberal Republicans, and keep his job.

He was born Feb. 3, 1883, in Iowa and moved to Oregon with his parents in 1885 and attended school in Union, Ore. The family moved to Nez Perce county in 1903 and to Hill City in 1912. He started a homestead near Hill City in 1913 and farmed most of his life.

Surviving are two brothers, Will Wolf, Hill City, and Max Wolf, Corral, and two sisters, Mrs. E. A. (Mabel) Harrison, Hill City, and Mrs. Edith Patton, Seattle, Wash. He was preceded in death by one sister.

Funeral services will be announced by Thompson chapel, Gooding.

Power

alized by the FPC report could be realized even though the report had "much to commend it."

The report called for "fully coordinated power networks covering broad areas of the country." The heart of such a system would be extra-high-voltage transmission lines linking various areas of the country.

Swidler said it was an effort by the FPC to help industry reduce costs instead of waiting for individual power utilities to file for rate increases.

Alex Radin, general manager of the American Public Power association, called for assurances that any benefits would be passed on to consumers. He said congress should take a "careful look" at the report to see what its implications might be in the field of regulation.

A 10-member advisory committee which helped carry out the survey raised the FPC report but said members could not "fully endorse" some of its conclusions. It said disagreements included belief that greater benefits would result from "step-by-step regional coordination rather than from the long East-West (cross-country) tie-lines suggested in the survey."

The disagreement referred to suggestions in the report that great benefits might result from four major interties, one of which would carry power nearly 2,000 miles from Columbia river between Washington and Oregon to Fort Worth.

The other suggested long-distance interconnections included transmission lines from Lewiston, Ida., to Ft. Thompson, S.D., San Francisco to Omaha, and Los Angeles to Fort Worth.

Death Takes Mrs. Smith At Age 74

JEROME, Dec. 14—Mrs. Irene Jane Smith, 74, died Sunday morning at her home of a heart attack.

She was born May 25, 1890, in Hossbury, O., and was married to Lewis F. Smith April 13, 1909, in Versailles, O. After their marriage they moved to Nebraska where they farmed for four years. They came to Idaho in 1913 and settled in Moore.

They later moved to Darington, where they homesteaded. They moved to Jerome in 1944. She was a member of the Christian church.

Survivors include eight daughters, Mrs. Mary Christensen, Pocatello, Mrs. Carol Pritchett, Mrs. Dorothy Ivie and Mrs. Elsie Sayer, all Mackay, Mrs. Lillian Bell, Darington, Mrs. Goldie Pettit, Mrs. Claribel Jackson and Mrs. Lucille Carlton, all Jerome; four sons, Francis Smith, Dickey, Harold Smith and Orville Smith, both Darington, and Lloyd Smith, Mackay; one brother, Roy Emmons, Osceola, Nebr.; one sister, Mrs. Amy Hagedorn, Buhl; 47 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Hove funeral chapel by the Rev. Harold Robbins. Concluding rites will be in the Jerome cemetery. Friends may call at the Hove funeral chapel Tuesday afternoon and evening until time of services.

3 Held for Exploding Gas Balloon

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 14 (AP) — Three men accused of exploding a gas-filled plastic balloon outside a crowded Negro church yesterday were under investigation today in connection with a dynamite bombing two weeks ago.

The balloon, attached to a pipe at the rear of a pickup truck exploded with a flash of flame and a deafening roar. Children and adults in the church rushed into the street and a passing policeman chased down the suspects.

No one was hurt and there was no damage.

Detective J. D. Wade said he caught the three men five blocks away in a parking lot behind a diner. They were identified as Henry Alexander, 35; James M. White, 31, and Donald B. Landers, 19, all Montgomery.

Police Capt. Jack Shows said the men admitted exploding the balloon to "frighten the Negroes." Chief Marvin Stanley said they claimed it was just a "prank."

They were charged with setting off explosives "near an occupied building," a crime which can be punishable by death.

Deputy circuit solicitor (prosecutor) Willie Riggs also said the three men are suspects in the bombing Nov. 29 of Negro businessman Charles Spears' home. The $30,000 brick and wood residence was heavily damaged by a dynamite blast set off in the carport but no one was injured.

The church near where the balloon was exploded yesterday was the First Baptist, bombed along with the ministers home during the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King's bus boycott of 1957. Alexander was accused of bombing the home but was never tried.

ROGER LAMONTE BROOM, nine months old, of Clarkston, Wash., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Broom, has been eating carrots—cooked, of course—since he was six weeks old. Now it appears he'll continue for a while. A stranger, displaying this home-grown, four-pound, foot-long monster in a Clarkston restaurant gave it to Mrs. Broom when she explained how much her son liked carrots. Roger seems pleased with the acquisition. (AP wirephoto)

Strategy in Viet Nam Obscured

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — U. S. strategy in South Viet Nam has become obscured by an almost impenetrable fog of press speculation.

A newspaper headline announces: "Expansion of war seen." Articles predict that bombing raids in communist North Viet Nam are about to begin. Others say the raids will be in Laos. Still others say there will be no raids.

With few exceptions the Johnson administration has simply sat back and let the speculation continue.

What does all this mean to the average American?

What he is witnessing is a tense game of strategic maneuvering played between governments at the highest level and with very high stakes.

Twice in the last two weeks the governments of the United States and South Viet Nam have issued statements which have been interpreted by perhaps 30 per cent of newsmen as "hinting" at expansion of the Vietnamese war.

The first was a White House statement issued Dec. 1 at the close of U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor's Washington talks. It called attention to "accumulating evidence" of increased North Vietnamese infiltration into the South and spoke of measures to improve the battle against communism "in all its aspects."

The second was a statement issued by the South Vietnamese government last Friday, with U. S. approval. It announced increases in U. S. military and economic aid to improve programs generally "and to restrain mounting infiltration."

Neither statement said there would be raids against infiltration routes outside South Viet Nam. It can be debated whether, as a matter of strict logic, they "hinted" this, since infiltration can be "restrained" either inside or outside a country.

But it must have crossed the minds of the authors that some newsmen would interpret them that way. President Johnson, meanwhile, issued orders that officials should not interpret the statements for reporters. The statements would "speak for themselves."

One thing the American man in the street should know is that the statements were not written just for him. More importantly, they were written to be read by strategists in Hanoi—the capital of North Viet Nam—in Peking and in Moscow.

ATTEND SERVICES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — President and Mrs. Johnson yesterday attended services at the Episcopal church of St. Mark on Capitol Hill.

Masons at Buhl Choose Officers

BUHL, Dec. 13 — T. M. (Bus) Kendrick succeeded Roland Harding as master of Buhl lodge No. 53 AF and AM during an election meeting held Thursday night at the Masonic temple.

Other new officers elected for 1965 are Robert Dickard, senior warden; Theodor Netz, junior warden; Russell Thomas, treasurer, and William Bosworth, secretary. Amos Caudill and Lloyd Byrne will be installed in public installation ceremonies at 8 p.m. Dec. 22 at the Masonic temple.

Rites Held For Former K. H. Woman

KING HILL, Dec. 14 — Funeral services were held Friday in California for Mrs. C. A. Walsh, San Bernardino, Calif. She is a former King Hill resident.

She is a native of Idaho but had lived in California for the past 30 years. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh came to King Hill in 1910 from Ottenheim, Ind., where they farmed and raised apples on their ranch south of here.

In 1945 they left King Hill and went to San Bernardino. Mrs. Walsh was an active member of the King Hill United Presbyterian church and is a member of St. Paul's Methodist church, Christian Homemakers and the Wesleyan service guild in California.

She was also a member of the King Hill Grange during her residence here.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Ardis Walsh, San Bernardino; two brothers, Clarence Smith, Kempton, Ind., and James E. Smith, Millbrae, Calif., and two sisters, Mrs. Lee Fisher, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. Maud Anderson, West Lafayette, Ind.

Ceylon Election Dates Moved up

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Dec. 14 (AP) — Premier Mrs. Cirimavo R. D. Bandaranaike, on the advice of her personal astrologer, yesterday advanced parliamentary elections two days from March 24 to take advantage of favorable planetary readings.

Mrs. Bandaranaike, a keen follower of astrology, was advised that March 22 was a "lucky date."

She told her Freedom party's annual conference held at Kandy that the party would contest the elections in a common front with the Trotskyist and communist parties.

There are good reasons why women want Flameless water heating

Because It Is So Clean: Electric water heaters are completely enclosed within a smooth outside shell. There's no flame or smoke. You can even install them in a closet where you hang your best clothes.

Because It Is Cool To The Touch: Completely enclosed by insulation, top and bottom and all around, the exterior is cool. All of the heat goes into the water.

Because It Is Quiet: Your flameless water heater sits so quietly in its corner, you almost forget it's there.

Because It Is Fast And Dependable: New quick recovery water heaters are three times faster than the older models—geared for modern hot water useage. They provide generously for all your hot water needs.

And Because It Is Flameless! First choice among more than 100,000 families served by Idaho Power Company, it's one of the many things electricity does best. You live better . . . electrically!

Buy New Quick Recovery Electric Water Heaters For As Little As $3 A MONTH, on your electric bill if you wish, without down payment. Order through the dealer or plumber of your choice.

Filling Big Shoes

The Twin Falls county fair board has an awesome task in filling the office of secretary-manager. The board's success will have a bearing on the county fair's future. The secretary-manager position isn't merely another job. It's a full time position that requires a dedicated individual who will do anything and everything required to continue the annual fair as one of the best such exhibitions anyplace. That was the sort of man who had served as secretary-manager all these years. The late Tom Parks left a pair of big shoes that won't be easy to fill.

Harold Hove, who is chairman of the fair board committee to find a new secretary-manager, outlined the size of job facing any would-be applicant. He said the secretary-manager must have the ability to get along with people, must be able to demonstrate devotion and responsibility, must have mechanical aptitudes and show ability in maintenance. He should have an agricultural background with a knowledge of accounting.

These are fairly extensive requirements, but still just a basic outline of the sort of talents needed by anyone who would aspire to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Parks' death. There isn't one single aspect of the Twin Falls county fair that doesn't show the influence and planning of Tom Parks. These aspects range all the way up to financial details. It's doubtful if any one man ever again will have such broad influence and authority over the fair.

Everyone will be watching with interest as Mr. Hove and his committee go about the tremendous task of finding another secretary-manager.

WORSE, IF ANYTHING

Ever since Nikita Khrushchev was ousted as premier of Russia, nations of the world have been watching for indications of the future course of Russia. The U.S. state department must be analyzing every move made by the new regime and every word of communist directives for an indication of what can be expected from the new communist leaders. Among other things, the U.S. has learned that the Soviet Union has started a more intense campaign against churches. If any indication is needed, that should suffice.

Under Premier Khrushchev, the Russians developed a certain amount of tolerance for churches. At any rate there was more tolerance of religion than anything experienced under Josef Stalin. So if the present Russian leaders decide to resume something similar to the Stalin attitude toward religion, there can be little chance of relaxation of other repressive measures. If anything, the new Russian leaders appear to be rougher communists than Khrushchev.

Actually, there's no reason for the world to hope for anything better or worse than communism out of Russia. Perhaps the degree might make a difference for awhile, but eventually all communists have the same goal, world domination. The free world can find little reason for optimism where communism is concerned, regardless of leadership.

HAD HIS CHANCE

No one knows any more about running things in general than an ex-politician. And the ones who know more about running the nation than anyone else are the ex-Presidents. However, when an ex-President starts suggesting a national policy or course, citizens should look immediately at the man's record while he was occupying the White House. Few ex-Presidents have records that would lend emphasis to their suggestions.

No exception is ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower. No one can touch the reputation of Dwight Eisenhower, the general, but Dwight Eisenhower, the President, left much to be desired. At best, he probably was no more than a mediocre chief executive. So it's peculiar to hear ex-President Eisenhower lashing what he calls a movement "toward federal domination over almost every phase of our economy." There's not a shadow of a doubt that he's right. The point is that Mr. Eisenhower had eight years to work for decentralization. He muffed it.

Presumably Ike feels no differently now than when he was President, about federal domination of all phases of the economy. If he felt so strongly about it, why didn't he attempt to reduce the amount of federal domination while he was President? Why didn't he reduce federal expenditures?

If a man has a chance to accomplish what he believes is right and then does not make good, should he retain his right to criticize?

NATIONAL

WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—There are important things being discussed these days, too. If you're the nostalgic sort that sheds an occasional tear for Clara Bow, needled beer and the stereoptican, it should give you a modicum of pleasurable sorrow to consider the demise of the bowler hat. Or derby, if you prefer.

Andrew Tully

In England, lords of the realm as well as authors of letters to the editor are properly disturbed by the bowler's decline in popularity. Englishmen, it seems, are being seduced by the American snap-brim and sombrero and thus sacrificing their distinction as red-blooded Britons.

ONCE SAFETY HELMET—This is too bad. The bowler—or derby—has not fared well in America in the past quarter-century because we are a fickle, dilettante sort. But mankind has been cheered by its survival in the British Isles as part of day-to-day attire. There it is the badge of bank clerks, young men about town and curiously, of gas meter readers. Prince Philip has bowlers of many shades and so does Princess Margaret's hubby, Lord Snowden. Other stylish Britons have clung to its simple elegance. It not quite so important as Dover's White Cliffs, it remains a British heritage.

Here in the U.S. the term "iron hat" has been tossed at the bowler, or derby, as a form of derision. But the fact is it was invented by a steeplechase devotee named William Coke, who designed the first derby as a crash helmet to preserve the skulls of Britons involved in falls from horseback.

SLOWER ACCEPTANCE HERE—Prince Albert adopted the bowler within a year after its invention, and by the 80s a man either counted a bowler among his trappings or risked being snubbed as a peasant—or an American.

In the United States, men were slower to adopt it, but once they did it became a craze that lasted from the turn of the century through the 20s. The first American bowler, incidentally, was created by a South Norwalk, Conn., firm which christened its product "derby," after Lord Derby, a prominent Briton of the day.

Al Smith's brown-job was the most famous of all, of course. A Hollywood restaurant was built in its image and prospered. The late Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York were one with chic as he wore everything. It was a favorite with George M. Cohan, and is still paid respectful homage by the elder statesman, Bernard Baruch. As Secretary of State, Dean Acheson looked splendid in one.

SAFETY IN DERBY—But in most American quarters, the derby was put to the use intended for it by its inventor. Bricklayers and other construction workers swore by it as insurance against the hazard of falling bricks and plaster. It was resistant to the hardest-thrown snowballs. And in toughest neighborhoods, it has saved many a cranium from shattering under the blow of a blackjack.

It may be, of course, that time has doomed the bowler and that even in England the black Homburg eventually will replace the old iron hat. But as an aficionado of the derby put it, "How can a man look properly respectful at a nice funeral without a derby?"

SHAPEUP IN THE FPC

Within the next seven months President Johnson will have the opportunity to determine the complexion of the federal power commission. One of the five commissionerships has been vacant for a year. Commissioner Charles R. Ross has continued to serve since expiration of his term last June in default of appointment of a successor, and Chairman Joseph C. Swidler's term will expire the coming June. Will the commission then be balanced toward protection of the consumer, as is its primary purpose, or will it be weighted in favor of the industries it is supposed to regulate?

The most important clue to the answer in point of time centers on Mr. Ross, a Vermont Republican appointed by the late President Kennedy in 1961. Mr. Ross has frequently been the balance of power holding the commission to the side of consumer protection. In consequence he earned the enmity of the natural gas industry, which wants the President to let him go. Urging his reappointment was a bipartisan coalition including Vermont's governor and both senators, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, then the senate majority whip and now vice president-elect, and spokesmen of rural electric cooperatives and organized labor.

For the President, the decision was pre-election dynamite. So he deferred it—the weakest possible course, a poor precedent, and not very fair either to Mr. Ross or to the commission. Now that the election is over the decision what to do about Charles Ross may be taken at any time. When it is made, it will show a great deal about the man who has made it.

As senator, Mr. Johnson voted eight years ago to exempt natural gas producers from regulation by the FPC. His record is one of opposition to strong regulation, particularly in the oil-and-gas industries, with which, as a Texan, his political fortunes have been closely identified. It must be hoped that with his ascension to the presidency his position has become less dominated by state and more by national interest. For the decisions which he is soon to make will make or break the federal power commission as an effective instrument of consumer protection for the next four years or longer.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

MINDING ONE'S BUSINESS

It doesn't always pay to be helpful, as we occasionally are reminded by the victims of this overorganized society.

Reminder: At Washington, D.C., Ross Langdon heard a crash in front of his house, dashed in his bathrobe to the scene of the accident and then placed a call to the police. The officer who took the call accidentally listed Langdon as the owner of one of the cars and the next month he was notified that his license was being suspended for failure to submit an accident report. He got that straightened out only to find that his auto insurance was being canceled. Now it appears that he will be placed in an "assigned risk" category and have to pay $40 a year more for insurance despite a perfect driving record.

Reminder: At New York, the city parks department assigned gardener Paul Goluboff to take care of the greenery around a city playground in the Bronx. Goluboff decided to teach the neighborhood kids something about plants and nature while he was at it, and he helped them plant some vegetables and flowers. An admirer wrote a letter to the parks department praising Goluboff. The department thereupon charged that Goluboff had exceeded his authority in planting without permission, reprimanded the gardner, and ordered the vegetables and flowers plowed under.

Reminder: At New Orleans, 15-year-old Paul D. Anthony called the motel where he worked as a substitute bellhop; heard a holdup in progress over an open telephone line, alerted police, ran to the motel and helped to capture the gunman. His heroism came to the attention of the Louisiana department of labor, which ordered him fired because he is not yet 16 years old.

TOO COMPLICATED

Sir:

Economics must be too complicated for the average person to understand.

For example, cattlemen are complaining loud and long about low prices and some of them are hollering that they'll be bankrupt before long. But we still find that steak is too expensive for us except as an occasional, and I do mean occasional, treat. How on earth can anyone be expected to follow all the ins and outs of economics or whatever it is that makes beef too cheap on one end and too expensive on the other?

Never apologize for anything. You see, if you apologize, then there's twice as good a chance that whatever you've said or done will be interpreted as an insult.

But if you never apologize, chances are the person you have insulted will be too stupid to know it. So don't go around calling attention to your insults and blunders.

At three score years and ten,
I said to myself, "How lucky you've been."
At three score years and ten
and five,
My luck holds out; I'm still alive.
Now I'm three score years and ten and TEN,
What's the score from here on in?
Some say, "Life is but brief and full of sorrow;
We're here today and gone to morrow."
"Not so," say I, "It's been mostly a pleasure
With loved ones and friends and events I treasure."
I'll live each day as best I can,
Hoping to be of service to my fellow-man.
It won't be easy, the years take their toll,
The spirit is willing but to move
my soul
I don't seem to remember this and that
And it sort of irks me to find that I have to slow down and sit a while
With my feet on the ground and my thoughts beguile.
When the tissues break down and the mind goes away,
Let the end be quick, O Lord, I pray.
For now I'll take what comes,
do my best to smile,
As I tarry here for a little while.

World Corners

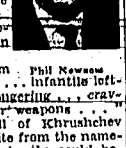
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign-News Analyst

Up to now the Red Chinese have been holding back from the new Kremlin leadership the choice invective which they used to heap upon Nikita Khrushchev.

". . . Timid as a mouse . . . the great capitulationist of all time . . . betrayer of Marxism . . ."

Those were just a few of the epithets.

And the Soviets replied in kind.



Phil Newsom

"Factionalism . . . Trotskyism . . . infantile leftism . . . warmongering . . . crazing for nuclear weapons . . ."

The downfall of Khrushchev brought a respite from the name-calling which shortly could begin again.

For the Chinese terms for settlement of their quarrel with the Soviets have been total surrender. And to these terms the Soviets neither will nor can afford to agree.

Introducing the budget for 1965, new Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin declared:

"We want to develop our relations with the United States of America and some steps have been made in this direction—although they have been small ones."

That alone is enough to trigger a Red Chinese tirade.

For the United States, although declared by the Chinese to be a "paper tiger," is also the force declared to be the greatest enemy of socialism and the chief barrier to the Red Chinese philosophy of violent revolution.

Kosygin paid lip service to communist aims in Cuba, South Viet Nam and the Congo. But the whole tenor of his presentation was that of a technician intent upon co-existence and the means to bring the U.S.S.R. out of economic chaos.

The struggle between Moscow and Peking is in three parts.

—The ideological struggle for leadership of world communism.

—The differences in the relative state of their industrial development.

—Traditional rivalries, including border claims.

On the first of these, the Russians cannot surrender without becoming a second-class nation in world communism. On this point, the Chinese demand not only the downgrading of Khrushchev, but the reinstatement of Stalinism.

The Chinese, far behind the Russians in industrial development, demand equal sacrifices of all communist nations until a common level is reached by all. But the Russians are faced by a grumbling population at home and have more to lose in a nuclear war.

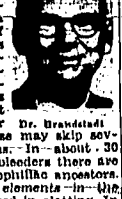
Flushed by their recent acquisition of a nuclear bomb, the Chinese have been even less backward than usual in stating their position on various subjects.

One has dealt with their long joint border with the Soviet Union, the longest in the world. They have warned the Russians they will not give up one inch of their territory in Sinkiang province, a province not inhabited by Chinese but by a population primarily Moslem.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

A few decades ago very few hemophiliacs — or bleeders, as they are called—lived to be 20. Many of them now live nearly normal lives. Hemophilia was once called "the disease of kings" because inbreeding in the royal families of Europe produced a large number of persons with this hereditary defect. This disease is transmitted by mothers who are not bleeders to their sons. The disease may skip several generations. In about 30 per cent of all bleeders there are no known hemophiliac ancestors.



Dr. Brandstadt

At least 11 elements in the blood are involved in clotting. In some bleeders, the anti-hemophilic factor known as Factor VIII and in others Factor IX is deficient or absent. Since many parents elect to have their sons circumcised before they leave the hospital, it is important to test the child's clotting time before having this done.

When hemophilia is not discovered in this way, suspicion is aroused when a child is found to bruise easily or when a minor scratch bleeds profusely. In some children the diagnosis is made when he loses his first tooth. Aspirin should never be given to a bleeder because in such a person it may cause a severe hemorrhage.

Once the diagnosis is made it is important to protect the infant from minor cuts and bruises. The sides of his crib, playpen and high chair should be padded and he must not be allowed to have toys with sharp edges. Toys made of fabrics, rubber or soft plastic are best. The child's nails must be trimmed frequently, so that he cannot scratch himself. Even scratching an insect bite may start a hemorrhage. When he is old enough to be told about his disease, he must be conditioned to follow interesting but sedentary pursuits. His goal is protection without overprotection.

Many hemophiliacs have poor teeth. This may be due in part to eating soft foods and not brushing the teeth for fear of starting a hemorrhage. They should brush with a soft brush, but if a tooth must be pulled it should be done in a hospital. Bleeding episodes are treated with blood plasma, whole blood transfusion or concentrated Factor VIII depending on the circumstances.

Recent studies indicate that if Factor VIII is given to a bleeder at birth, it may stimulate a steady production of this vital element and prevent the child from becoming a bleeder. This cannot be done later in life. Parents with a son who is a bleeder are advised to contact the National Hemophilia foundation, 175 Fifth avenue, New York, N.Y., 10010, for more detailed information.

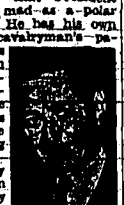
TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON

WORLD NEWS

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Taking a whole new look at the United Nations, White House insiders report that President Johnson is as mad as a polar bear in Miami. He has his own kind of old cavalryman's patience but this anger does him credit. Augmenting his Soviet obstructions, the U. N. freeloaders are in the saddle—largely voting against us.



Henry J. Taylor

Secretary of State Dean Rusk recently revealed that in the general assembly a decisive two-thirds majority can be formed by "nations" with only 10 per cent of the world's population, and who contribute altogether about five per cent of the assessed budget.

What President Johnson faces as the 19th session opens has old roots, stark and lurid:

Promptly after World war I, 31 nations affecting nearly 75 per cent of the world's population, staged violent political upheavals. We wanted the world to be "safe for democracy." But these eruptions were so complete that the number of people under democratic forms of government were actually fewer than before World war I.

Then the German aggressor struck again. But even with the defeat of the hideous nazis, World war II spelled the end of freedom for additional millions. Like the fascists before them, the red hangmen never run out of rope. In China alone, Mao Tse-tung himself has admitted he executed 800,000 anti-communist Chinese.

Sino-Soviet foreign policy likewise crashes in on the prestige of violence. Well-organized gangs have a very real power.

Meanwhile, tragically we cooperated in helping to fracture much of the rest of the world into defenseless little pieces, chiefly in Southeast Asia, Africa and the Middle East. In this we courted "world opinion," which is never defined. As one result, before World war II communist parties existed in 43 countries and totaled 4.2 million members. Communist parties now number 90 and the total members exceeds 42 million.

U. N. membership ballooned from 57 to 115. Yet of the 115 only 26 are what the organization itself calls "developed" nations.

In this tumbling avalanche as many as 13 new "nations" have been taken aboard in a single day.

Although most are merely primitive communities, all are referred to as "underdeveloped nations," implying that each would be more or less an advanced nation if only it had the money and the chance.

Thus tiny Gabon, for example, with only half the population of the Bronx in New York and a constitution glued together by witch doctors, has a vote in the U.N. that counts as heavily as that of the United States.

We helped create a potential balance of power in the general assembly by delegates whose home population for the most part know as little about democracy, freedom, justice, etc., in Western terms as they know about the Dow-Jones averages or Casey Stengel and the Mets.

Our taxpayers pay nearly one-third of the organization's regular budget. Additional assessments are under dispute. But even beyond these, the ramifications are hardly known to our public.

Some time ago Russia sold trucks and jeeps to Castro. The Kremlin cleverly labeled the deal "for malaria eradication purposes," and put the transaction through the Pan American Health organization and the World Health organization of the U.N. in Geneva. We pay 64 per cent of PAHO's budget. We also pay over 90 per cent of WHO's malaria account.

Moreover, the doings behind the scenes do not stop there. At the Dec. 1 opening of the 19th general assembly, 77 "underdeveloped" countries pushed for trade concessions, commercial advantages and new spending programs within the U.N. for which we'd be chief payers and they would be the chief beneficiaries.

The long record shows that we are fully aware of our responsibilities to the "underdeveloped" countries. But President Johnson is certainly right in asking whether they are aware of their responsibilities to us.

The United Nations charter was flown back to Washington from San Francisco in a fireproof box with a parachute attached because the plane fell. And perhaps it is the nature of history to declare itself through small events. The man in charge, who held it in his lap, was Alger Hiss.

VANDERBILT CLUB RIDES AGAIN

Harold S. (Mike) Vanderbilt, who invented contract bridge back in 1925 and developed the Vanderbilt Club convention as the first bidding system, has just published a book on a modern-ised version of the convention.

On page 100, he is kind enough to recall that in 1934 he and I won a national title playing his club convention. It is a good convention but I feel strongly that you lose a trifle more than you gain when you have to give up your normal one club bid in order to use it artificially. Now ever Mike has come up with a couple of ideas in his book that I intend to use if I can't incorporate them in my own bidding methods.

His first idea is that aces and kings are so important in slam bidding that he counts ace-king points as well as high card points. Thus, one diamond response to the Vanderbilt Club denies holding: A—two aces; B—one ace, two kings and one queen; C—two kings and two queens.

When today's hand was played at a New Jersey regional tournament, the standard bidding was usually one club-by South, one spade by North, whereupon several South players became over-ambitious and landed in five spades. This went down a trick because the defense collected two aces and a heart ruff.

The bidding in the box at the Vanderbilt club. The club opening shows at least 16 high-card points. The diamond response denies two aces, so South makes no effort at all to get the slam and stops at four spades.

T. F. Woman's Car Strikes Building

Mrs. Steve (Barbara) Tipton, 531 Buchanan street, was listed in fairly good condition Monday morning at Magic Valley Memorial hospital after the 1957 Buick she was driving rammed into the Washington school building on the corner of Addison avenue east and Blue Lakes boulevard north.

Mrs. Tipton was traveling north on Shoshone street and, according to several witnesses, at a high rate of speed. She applied the brakes and the car skidded about 160 feet on the pavement, jumped the curb, knocked down a concrete post and skidded into the school building, dragging the concrete post beneath the car. Twin Falls police said she skidded a total of 276 feet.

The car was totally demolished but no damage was reported to the school building.

A citation for extreme reckless driving is pending.

DENVER, Dec. 14 (UPI) — A hooded gunman came up behind Mrs. Shirley L. Howell, 36, yesterday and demanded she turn over her money.

"Oh, drop dead," she told him.

"I'm not fooling — gimme the money," he insisted.

"I'm going to tell you something, buddy," she replied. "I've got my gun with me and I'm going to blow your head off."

The startled robber turned and ran. Mrs. Howell said she had no gun.

Joint Party Is Due for Cedar Draw

BUHL, Dec. 14 — The Cedar Draw Grange and Cedar Draw community club will observe its annual joint Christmas party with all children of the community at 8 p.m. Dec. 21 at the Grange hall, it was announced during the regular Grange meeting Friday night.

All children attending are asked to prepare a number for the program. There will be a gift exchange between youngsters with the gift limit set at 50 cents. Each family is requested to furnish sandwiches for the affair.

Mrs. Henry Dahlquist, home economics chairman, and Mrs. Ray Ward, lecturer, are serving on the Grange committee making arrangements for the annual event.

Gary Grindstaff, master, Mrs. Dahlquist and Mrs. Ward reported on the meeting they attended recently in Twin Falls conducted by state Grange officers. They noted forthcoming events outlined at the meeting called for the organization of drill teams in Magic Valley and a membership contest for 1965.

It was noted Cedar Draw, Buhl, Northview and Filer Granges will comprise a fourth degree team.

Various representatives who were in attendance Friday evening to discuss the drill team program were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beach, Northview Grange; Loren Drake, Filer Grange; Dean Smith and Mrs. Blanche Smith, Buhl Grange.

Other visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cartee, Lucerne Grange. They reported on state Grange sessions they attended in Iowa, a trip Cartee won in the state Grange youth contest scholarship.

E. B. (Bill) Hicks, president of the Twin Falls county unit of the National Farmers Organization, gave highlights of the recent NFO convention held in Minneapolis. Mrs. Ray Ward gave the closing thought of the evening, "Christmas in the Heart."

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rieder and Mrs. Emma Bienz, assisted by the home economics committee.

News Around Idaho

By The Associated Press

Highways were snow-covered and slick in southwest Idaho today as the result of a fresh storm but conditions were better elsewhere in the state. Snow floor was reported at Cascade and McCall, the Weiser area and Boise, east to King Hill and Bliss. Highway 95 south to Nevada also had snow. There were icy spots in the Twin Falls area and throughout southeast Idaho. But highway 30 south to Strevell was bare. Whitebird hill had icy spots but highways were bare at Lewiston. There were icy spots on Lolo pass, in the Coeur d'Alene area and on Fourth of July canyon while Lookout pass had snow floor with chains advised. Highway 56 over the Blue mountains was snow-covered as far as Meacham with light snow at LaGrande. It was bare at Pendleton. State police said chains were required.

POCATELLO, Dec. 14 (UPI)—Unemployment claims increased in the past week, but the total remains well below last year at this time, the Pocatello office of the employment security agency reported. A total of 677 persons are collecting unemployment insurance in the six-county area served by the Pocatello office, including 387 in greater Pocatello. Last year at this time, the totals were 1,058 and 568. Thirty-eight persons were placed in non-agricultural jobs last week, and 95 jobs were available today. However, most required specific skills.

MOSCOW, Dec. 14 (UPI)—The board of regents of the University of Idaho report they won't select a new university president until after the 1965 legislature adjourns. Earlier in its December meeting, which ended Saturday, the board said a successor to Dr. D. R. Theophilus, who resigned in June, 1965, would be picked sooner than expected. But Board Chairman Elven Hampton said today members want to take another look at the five candidates for the job before making a final decision. Hampton declined to name the five candidates, but denied reports the two interviewed last week were D. R. King of the University of Virginia and E. R. McGovern of the University of Maryland.

POCATELLO, Dec. 14 (UPI)—The son of a Pocatello woman has been appointed dean of the college of the University of Chicago. The appointment of Wayne C. Booth, son of Mrs. Ray J. Davis, Pocatello, became effective this week. He is the 11th dean since the college was established in 1907 as the unified undergraduate branch of the University of Chicago. About 2,100 students, who must meet rigorous academic standards for admission, are enrolled in the college, which awards the degrees of bachelor of arts, bachelor of science and bachelor of fine arts. Booth is a distinguished literatory critic and an authority on the teaching of English composition.

Week-end accidents have claimed the lives of two Idahoans and boosted the state's mounting 1964 traffic fatality toll to 240, compared with 199 on this date a year ago. Killed in a one-car collision near Spalding in north Idaho Sunday was Ray Fullerton, 46, Lewiston. Mrs. Dewey Metcalf, 62, Pocatello, was killed in a two-car collision Saturday near Blackfoot. State police said Fullerton was fatally injured when the car he was riding in spun out of control and slammed into a tree near the intersection of U. S. highway 95 and the Mission creek road 11 miles south of Spalding. He died in a Lewiston hospital about two hours after the accident. Mrs. Metcalf died in a header collision near the Blackfoot river bridge on U. S. highway 91-191. Officers said her husband, Dewey, 65, and Jerrold Hymas, 21, Pocatello, driver of the other car, were injured. Their condition was listed as serious late Sunday night.

BLACKFOOT, Dec. 14 (UPI)—A Blackfoot man has appealed his conviction on an assault charge following a trial in city court. Harold Harmon, 31, Blackfoot, was found guilty of a charge of assaulting a Blackfoot woman Dec. 6 in a trial before Judge Paul Crane. He was fined $300 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. The decision was appealed and Harmon was released on $500 bond pending a decision of the appeal in sixth district court.

Cancer Program Featured at Moose Meeting

James Worsley, Idaho state executive director of the cancer society, presented a film on cancer at the joint meeting of the Loyal Order of Moose and Women of the Moose.

Worsley introduced Dr. B. N. Carle who gave a speech about cancer and answered questions on the subject.

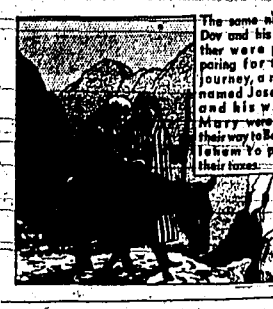
The program was presented by the social service committee.

Women of the Moose held their regular formal meeting with Mrs. George Long, senior regent, conducting the meeting.

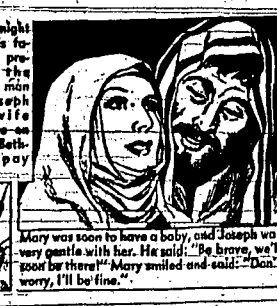
Pro-tem officer was Mrs. Gale Killinger, junior regent.

Nikki Ronk presented a piano solo and Carol Barker, Pamela Warren, Linda Wilson and Sheila Dryden sang "Winter Wonderland" and "Joy to the World."

The social service committee served the refreshments.



The same night Dov and his father were preparing for the journey, a man named Joseph and his wife Mary were on their way to Bethlehem to pay their taxes.



Mary was soon to have a baby, and Joseph was very gentle with her. He said: "Be brave, we'll soon be there!" Mary smiled and said: "Don't worry, I'll be fine."

But though they arrived in Bethlehem safely, there was no room for them at the inn. It was crowded with travelers.

Child Dies

GOODING, Dec. 14 — Teddy Dean Jones, two and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, died Sunday in Portland, Ore., of a heart disease.

He was born July 28, 1962, at Heppner, Ore.

Survivors include his parents; three brothers, Joe Kerby, Timothy Jones and Thomas Jones; two sisters, Sandra Kerby and Sally Kerby, all Gresham, Ore.; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Backer, Mapleton, Ia.

Graveside services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Friday in the Elmwood cemetery by Bishop Aldon Johnson, of the Gooding LDS church. Cortege will leave Thompson chapel at 10:15 a.m.

N. Y. Doctor to Demonstrate Deafness Operation in China

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UPI) — "If every man would mend a man, all the world would be mended."

THAT'S an old Chinese proverb — and it also happens to be the personal philosophy of Dr. Samuel Rosen, New York, who is going to get a chance to test it soon behind the usually impenetrable bamboo curtain.

The Communist Chinese regime is lifting the curtain a bit to permit Rosen, a surgeon, to demonstrate an operation he has used to restore hearing to thousands of deaf persons.

Except for a handful of U.S. newsmen, Rosen is one of the few Americans to be extended an invitation to visit Red China.

"Who knows? It may be the beginning of something," said Rosen in an interview with United Press International.

The state department has approved passports for Rosen and his wife Helen to travel to Peking Jan. 1. He was invited by the Red Chinese medical society to demonstrate the operation bearing his name.

It involves surgical correction of one of the most common causes of deafness. Rosen stumbled on the technique in 1953. Since then, he has restored the hearing of about 14,000 persons and demonstrated the operation to doctors in 27 nations.

With the patient under local anesthesia, Rosen opens the ear to the stapes in the middle ear. Deafness is usually caused by the calcium deposits at the base of the stirrup-shaped bone.

The calcium causes rigidity, keeping the stapes from vibrating, thus blocking the hearing process.

To correct this, Rosen flexes the bone in some cases, nicks it in others and sometimes replaces it with a plastic substitute.

In successful operations — 90 per cent of the time—hearing is instantly restored to the conscious patient.

"It's a terrific sensation for me and the patient," said Rosen.

Word of the operation traveled to Red China with R. K. Nehru, Indian ambassador to Peking.

"I performed the operation on Ambassador Nehru in Hong Kong. He told me later that Chou En-Lai and Mao Tze-tung were amazed at the improvement in his hearing," Rosen said.

College Is For Sale

CARTHAGE, Ill., Dec. 14 (UPI)—Write your own check for a 1.5 million dollars and you can buy a college — 37 buildings on 44 acres. That's what the advertisement says in some newspapers around the nation.

It's the campus abandoned this year by Carthage college, a Lutheran institution which moved to Kenosha, Wisc., to follow a shift in the population center of its controlling synod.

The deserted campus sits bleak and lonely 250 miles southwest of Chicago in Carthage, population 3,500, the seat of Hancock county.

Buildings date from three-story Old Main, a Victorian structure completed in 1871, to the austere chapel-music hall built in 1951.

The school plant is being offered for sale by Previews, Inc., a national clearing house for real estate with offices in New York, Chicago and other major cities.

Robert E. Reilly, vice president of the firm, said he and community leaders of Carthage hope the buyer will establish another college.

SCOTLAND'S FINEST SCOTCH

WHY? Scotch shipped in bottles is taxed on a 100-proof basis, even though it is less than 100-proof. Imported McMaster's Scotch, shipped in barrels and bottled in U.S.A., is taxed on the basis of actual proof in the bottle. This substantial tax savings is passed on to you. If McMaster's were bottled abroad, it would cost far more.

HERE IS A NEW USE FOR TURKEY FEATHERS. Sleeved made of turkey feathers are the main feature of this floor-length coachman's coat in light grey shown at a fashion show by designer Elizabeth Lawrence in New York. The show demonstrated how the soft feathers that grow close to the turkeys' bodies can be processed to achieve the marabou effect. Stork feathers have previously been used for marabou, but protective restrictions have cut down on this supply. (AP wirephoto)

Miss Looney, Hine Exchange Nuptial Promise

Charlene Lobney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Looney, Portland, Ore., became the bride of Melvin R. Hine, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Hine, Filer, Nov. 25 in a ceremony performed at the First Baptist church, Twin Falls.

The Rev. Robert P. Burchell performed the double ring ceremony before a background of yellow and bronze-colored chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and net ruffles, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long lily point sleeves.

Her short bouffant veil of bridal illusion was held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of chrysanthemums and guilded sweet gum pods accented with autumn leaves and gold-colored streamers.

Susan Looney, Portland, Ore., sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a tangerine and gold-colored brocade satin dress.

Bridesmaids were Jill Looney, Portland, sister of the bride, and Linda Hamilton and Vicki Clough, cousins of the bride, both Twin Falls. Each wore a dress identical to that of the maid of honor and carried cascaded bouquets of guilded wheat, bronze-colored chrysanthemums, accented with autumn leaves and gold-colored streamers.

Kenneth Ling was best man. Ushers were Richard DeVall, Larry Walden and Douglas Schroeder. Ringbearer was Clayton Clough.

Candlelighters were Paul Sharral and Pamela Sharral, nephew and niece of the bridegroom.

Frank McMullin played the traditional wedding music and Gary Major was soloist.

The bride's mother chose an emerald green two-piece wool suit accented with black accessories and a corsage of gold and bronze-colored chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother wore an eggshell-colored brocade satin dress with red accessories and a corsage of bronze and gold-colored chrysanthemums.

Guests were registered by Kathryn Sharral, niece of the bridegroom.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with tangerine and bronze colored roses and doves. The cake was surrounded with autumn leaves and bronze and gold-colored chrysanthemums.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pearl Scott, Mrs. Luther Perry, Mrs. Henry Dahlquist and Mrs. Frank Beer, all great-aunts of the bride.

Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Dean Taylor, Mrs. William Chesley and Mrs. Denny Black.

For her wedding trip, the bride changed to a blue brocade dress designed like that of the maid of honor and bridesmaids, enhanced with rhinestone accessories.

The bridegroom's parents honored the couple with a rehearsal dinner.

The bride was honored at a shower given by the members of Lucky Twelve club at the home of Mrs. J. H. Sharp; a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Floyd Sharp, and a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Albert Sharral.

Guests attended from Portland and Clackamas, Ore.; Placentia, Calif., Twin Falls, Filer, Buhl, Burley, Hazelton, Jerome, Gooding, Wendell, Nampa, Paul and Eden.

Gift-Making Ideas Listed By Writer

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — If ever there was a Christmas when you could give homemade articles for reasons other than just being poor, this one should be it.

Time was when one felt ashamed to pass off a pair of homemade socks that didn't measure up to other glamorous gifts put under the Christmas tree. But the emphasis on homespun articles has created a big demand.

There are courses and books available on just about anything from weaving Norwegian rugs to sewing on suede. There are patterns published in newspapers and kits containing fabric and directions for making embroidered articles.

The boy in your life might appreciate ties, handkerchiefs and socks. Crocheted silk ties are stylish and easy to do. The popcorn pattern is particularly popular.

Handkerchiefs can be made from scratch with linen, cut to size and hemstitched or with edges rolled. Sewing books at public libraries illustrate hemstitching. Or buy handkerchiefs and embroider name or initials on them.

It is a good plan to give all makes the same gift. Brothers are as impressed with home sewing accomplishments as boy friends, though they may be the last to admit it. Fathers flip when they get a homemade gift. After all, if it is going to be a basic necessity that he can buy at the local store, why bother? But with your mark of zeal on it — he'll be enchanted.

Even if mother has dozens of aprons, she'll like another, providing it is different from others. Use a pattern of felt with a pocket emblazoned with a holiday motif. A Christmas ornament may be the easiest design to work out. Glitter in sequins, trim beads or outlined with wool. An apron could be a great gift for almost any girl.

Sisters like to do something special for each other. A great gift for sister and one you could make yourself for the holidays is a hostess outfit.

You can run one up inexpensively if you find the just-right fabric. Make an overblouse, assembling a butcher's apron in a bright color — red, green, shocking pink, vivid blue, gold, then make a skirt or slacks of a matching striped fabric. This could be simply a straight skirt with side slits to the hips worn over the pants.

Holiday Dressy Season for Milady Is Here

BY HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (NEA) — The desire to really dress up is an integral part of feminine make-up. We prance before the mirror in mom's finery at the tender age of 5. And decades later we still find enchantment in dressing for a festive evening.

The holiday and resort season, so chock-full of important evenings, should be a happy time for all the girls who love to wear beautiful clothes.

Evening fashions are soft, fluid and feminine in design, fabric and color.

Long gowns for formal occasions just brush the instep this time around. Most have companion jackets or full-length coats.

A new fashion is the "soft-short" dinner dress, just to the knees. It often takes the shape of a tiered tunic or a skirt of swirling pleats. Bodices have just enough fit to be figure flattering, but not confining. This dress is as beguiling as lowered eyelashes and a perfect choice for that little evening that could so easily turn into a gala night.

Delicate embroidery, bold prints and beading are the elegant touches added to this season's evening wear.

Fabrics used are most frequently smooth or textured silks, silk crepes, printed and solid chiffon and Chantilly lace.

White is the favorite, black a close second for town holiday parties. And for the fortunate gals who will spend winter vacations in sunny climes there are pastels and bold prints in every hue.

This is the dressiest season of the year—so have a ball.

"If you plant it— or feed it ..
GLOBE SEED WILL HAVE IT"

You've never seen such a selection! Buy all your favorite makes in your style, size and color! Wear now and into spring, in ice cream pastels as well as the Holiday's most brilliant colors.

Give Youth To Your Complexion

Good results in complexion beauty are being achieved with a tropical oil that has unique properties to bring youth and peaches-and-cream loveliness to the skin. It ends wrinkle dryness and gives the complexion dewy loveliness. Many druggists have been able to obtain this oil or claim and will let you have a small supply. Use it daily as you would a powder base. ... Margaret Merrit.

Starting today, you can rent a car from the Ford Dealer right in Twin Falls!

We call this new service Ford Rent-A-Car. It's inexpensive. It's quick and convenient. It's operated by a Ford Dealer in your area. Being close to where you live, close to where you work, means we can put you in the Ford car of your choice faster than anyone else around. Just stop in and see us.

Who can use Ford Rent-A-Car? Ford Rent-A-Car is for everybody. It's for wives whose husbands take the family car out of town on business. It's for families who have to be in two places at the same time. It's for the businessman who needs a car right away. It's for you whenever you need an extra car—for an hour, a day, or a week.

How does Ford Rent-A-Car work? Like a charm. All you need is a telephone, a driver's license and the desire to go somewhere. To get a Ford Rent-A-Car, just stop in to see us or give us a call. Tell us what kind of Ford you want and when you want to pick it up. We'll do all the rest.

What kind of cars? 1965 Falcons, Fairlanes, Fords, Mustangs and Thunderbirds. And you can have practically any model you want—convertible, hardtop, sedan or wagon.

How much for Ford Rent-A-Car? Naturally, prices vary somewhat from model to model. (For instance, you'll pay less for a Falcon than a Thunderbird.) But all of them are surprisingly low. What's more, you can rent a car for as little or as long as you need it. Need a car for just an hour or two? You can have one for practically peanuts!

Can you charge? Sure thing. If you already have an account with us, you can come in, rent one of our cars, and say "charge it." If you don't have an account, it's a simple matter to open one up. Drop in any time and we'll be happy to take care of it.

How about insurance? It's all taken care of. The rental price you pay includes complete insurance coverage—collision, liability, fire, theft, the works. You drive our cars without a worry in the world.

Can you use a car today? Stop in, pick out a factory-fresh Ford and step on the gas. You'll be in top condition—serviced by the men who know Fords best.

Dad Should Not Be Forgotten On Gift List

BY AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (NEA)—If the Christmas buying habits of slightly less than 11½ million teen-age girls are a criterion, most American males (especially dad) will get the short end of the gift stick.

This and fact was uncovered in a survey made by a leading teen-age magazine shortly after Christmas last year.

Only mom and the current beau were swamped. From reports it's a wonder they didn't get box-opening fatigue.

Fortunately the girls tried to keep a semblance of peace in the family. When they did, the survey shows, they spent slightly more than $7 for favored gifts of shirts and ties, socks, after-shave lotions, pajamas, tie clasps, sweaters, wallets, handkerchiefs, gloves and records for dad. The boy friend rated a gift costing more than $10, with sweaters and jewelry the leading items.

Not to spoil this holiday's unwrapping ritual, these two categories will hold their position as popular gift choices. Remember, then, to smile and act surprised as you try them on.

Big brothers were next in the male receiving line with their share (under $6) of sport shirts, socks and records while the little lads had to make do with under $5 worth of toys and games as the most often selected gifts.

Just a note concerning sibling rivalry: The teen-aged girls said they spend more for little sisters' and big brothers' presents than for their little brothers' gifts. Paraphrasing a well-known ad, only their analysts know why.

Another gift-giving paradox shines through at Christmastime, as the survey indicated. If daughter is the apple of daddy's eye, why does she neglect him? Shouldn't this adoration be reflected in his ration at Christmas?

In the shopping days before Christmas why not do more for the head of the house than empty his billfold?

Magic Valley Favorites

AUDREY BOND,
Box 63, 1750 Oakley street, Burley

Raspberry Strata Salad

1 10-ounce package frozen raspberries, thawed and drained, (reserve syrup)
1 8½-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained (reserve syrup)
1 3-ounce package raspberry flavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 cups small curd, cream style cottage cheese
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cream

Combine raspberry and pineapple syrup. Add enough water to make one and three-fourths cup liquid. Heat until very hot and pour over raspberry-flavored gelatin. Stir until gelatin dissolves. Chill in refrigerator until mixture thickens to the consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Soften unflavored gelatin in the cold water and dissolve over low heat. Mix cottage cheese, salt, cream, pineapple and gelatin together. Spread half of this mixture in 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan. Chill until set.

Fold raspberries into raspberry gelatin mixture. Spoon evenly over half of the cottage cheese mixture. Top with remaining cottage cheese. Chill until firm. Garnish with crisp salad greens.

(The Times-News will pay $5 each week for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

Bandits Take Gold Bullion In Robbery

MONTREAL, Dec. 14 (UPI) — A hooded gang, operating with clockwork precision, held up a freight terminal at Dorval International airport early today and escaped with gold bullion and jewelry worth more than $100,000.

The five or six armed men appeared to have made a clean escape following their lightning-like raid on the Air Canada terminal.

With them went two boxes of gold bricks, worth "about $100,000," and a shipment of watches, gold coins and jewelry valued at more than $10,000.

Police, who were on the scene within 30 minutes of the holdup, said the gang entered the terminal about 4 a.m., EST, handcuffed five persons and locked them in a shower room, and then made off with the gold.

"It was an extremely smooth operation . . . like clockwork," said one investigating officer. "They obviously knew what they were doing."

The five persons, none of whom was injured, included a customs officer, two Canada freight handlers, a British Overseas Airways corporation (BOAC) representative and a night cleaner.

One of them managed to free himself and called the Royal Canadian mounted police, who patrol the federally-operated airport.

An Air Canada spokesman said the bullion involved two consignments, one from Switzerland and the other from Nicaragua. There was no immediate indication of their Montreal destination.

Wendell Girl Is Given Honor at ISU

WENDELL, Dec. 14 — Dianne Petersen, junior at Idaho State university, Pocatello, has been named as one of the 34 university students for Who's Who in colleges and universities for 1964-65.

The 15 point system is used in the choice of those to be honored, five points each allotted to academic, organization and scholarship. Those selected must be a junior or senior and must have a minimum of 2.5 accumulative grade point average.

Miss Petersen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Petersen, Wendell. She was graduated from Wendell high school and is an elementary education major at the university. She is currently serving as president of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She was selected as "Moonlight Girl" by Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity this year.

NATO's Ministers Council Will Not Discuss Multi-Lateral Force at Meet

By United Press International

A shadow issue will dominate the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO meeting that begins Tuesday in Paris.

When the annual ministers council session opens in the marble NATO building overlooking the Bois de Boulogne the subject that is putting the most stress and strain on the Atlantic alliance will not even be on the program.

By mutual agreement the council will not discuss the Multi-lateral Force MLF—which has been the keystone of the U.S. plan for the defense of Western Europe. But the subject will get priority in the sideline meetings, the dinners, and the private sessions to be held outside the rectangular conference room on the second floor of the NATO building.

The original American version of MLF called for a 25-vessel NATO nuclear fleet that would be armed with nuclear weapons and manned by crewmen of various nations under U.S. leadership.

But in recent talks in Washington President Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson agreed to combine their ideas on a NATO nuclear force.

The effect of the agreement was to put the U.S. plan on ice for a while.

The United States appeared to welcome an intermission on MLF negotiations, and well it might. A United Press International survey of the NATO capitals shows that the U.S. enthusiasm for the plan is matched by only one of its Atlantic partners—West Germany.

France has gone all-out to oppose it. Britain wants to develop a different plan. The reaction of Belgium, Denmark and Norway has been cool.

Other allies such as Italy and The Netherlands are lukewarm. Greece and Turkey are willing to contribute men but no money. Canada feels the project is militarily unsound.

Iceland, Luxembourg and Portugal have stood aside from the controversy.

The MLF plan is bound to come up at these sessions, but the U.S. decision against pushing its original concept at this time is certain to ease Rusk's task. Instead, the main burden now is on Britain which must try to get the allies to line up with a more comprehensive nuclear defense plan.

Under the British proposal, the cooperative nuclear force would include land-based and airborne missiles as well as those carried by ships. Britain would add her force of nuclear bombers to the allied defense arrangements and would insist that the United States control the ultimate firing of any nuclear weapons.

The three or four Polaris submarines that Britain has promised to build also would be added to the pool. With the United States retaining a veto over the firing of nuclear weapons, Wilson feels that Russia then should have no fears about West German participation in the force.

The MLF question is not the only issue that has caused division in the alliance, and these other differences are likely to get an airing before the NATO ministers, either in formal session or in private talks.

One of the foremost questions is the conduct of the Viet Nam war. Here again France is the No. 1 opponent of current U.S. policy.

The French position is that military victory in Viet Nam is impossible and that a negotiated settlement is the only way out. France feels that ultimately Viet Nam, Laos, and Cambodia must be neutralized, freed from foreign intervention, and taken out of the East-West conflict.

Denmark would like to see the U.S. mission in Viet Nam ended. Some other NATO nations, such as Luxembourg, feel that Viet Nam is far removed from their own problems.

Britain backs the U.S. policy of containing communism in Viet Nam but is not in favor of extending the war there.

The strength and disposition of NATO forces is another issue that must be faced by the ministers at the meeting opening Tuesday.

Other questions likely to arise during the NATO meeting are German reunification, East-West trade, the Cyprus question, and the Congo.

For its part, the United States now expects Britain to take over a major share of the burden of selling its plan for an Atlantic nuclear force to the allies. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will continue to support a cooperative arrangement and will emphasize the U.S. position that surface ships with mixed-manned crews must be part of any over-all plan.

Stewart Hensley, United Press International diplomatic reporter in Washington, says that the United States will seek to counter fears of possible Russian reprisals with the argument that when the Soviets understand the cooperative nuclear defense arrangement better they will realize that it is a safeguard against eventual German possession of nuclear weapons.

In his talks with the ministers Wilson will emphasize Britain's insistence on a permanent U.S. veto on missile firing, regardless of what form the eventual arrangement takes.

Briton to Visit Bonn in January

BONN, Germany, Dec. 14 (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson will come to Bonn for political talks during the second half of January, German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder announced yesterday.

Schroeder made the announcement on his return from political talks in London with Wilson and British Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker.

The timing of Wilson's visit to Bonn means he will confer with German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard probably after the British leader's next visit to Washington, tentatively scheduled for early January. It will definitely be before Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko visits London in March.

Practical Nurses Get Caps at Meet

RUPERT, Dec. 14 — Five student practical nurses received their caps in a ceremony this week at Minidoka Memorial hospital, marking the completion of the first phase of their year of training.

This is the third class of student practical nurses at Minidoka Memorial hospital and includes Mrs. Fred Kowitz, Mrs. LeRoy Gray, Mrs. Don Foust, Mrs. Dwayne Predrickson and Mrs. Jerry Loveland.

The Rev. C. Paul Moore, pastor of the First Christian church, gave the invocation and D. Evelyn Martindale discussed goals for pre-nurses. Mrs. Ruth Mary Sequist, instructor for the group, explained the program and presented each of the students with a lovely stemmed pink rose, a gift from the Pink Ladies.

Moore sang a solo and he and his wife sang a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd Knodel. LeRoy Gray gave the benediction.

After the ceremony, the licensed practical nurses at the hospital were in charge of a tea. Mrs. Elizabeth Berg and Mrs. Melvin Parr poured, assisted by Mrs. Alton Nye and Mrs. Gloria Pinkey.

Study of Demonstrations Proves Age Is No Barrier

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A teen-age boy brandishing a stick or hurling stones is no fearsome sight.

Multiply him by thousands, abandon him and his brethren to unscrupulous and opportunistic leaders, and he can bring down governments.

In the wave of student violence in Asia, Africa and Latin America, the participants' ages ranged from preteens to university maturity. In the mass they are not just kids on a damage, but an explosive political force.

How many of the outbursts are spontaneous? How many are provoked by legitimate student leaders? What impels students to violence?

Stormy student participation in politics is an old European custom, transplanted as a heritage of colonial times to Asia, Africa and most of the Western Hemisphere.

This tradition has not taken root extensively in the United States, probably because in a nation blessed with more freedom and opportunity than the Old World ever knew, students had less time for or interest in politics.

But the fever is contagious. There are occasional offshoots of it in the United States, such as the current incidents at the University of California.

The Old World idea — strong in Latin America and prevalent in much of the rest of the world — is that the grounds of the university are sacrosanct, beyond government authority and are indeed practically autonomous.

In the premuclear age, when the world was not so compressed a package, the university was the training ground for future leaders through exposure to problems of political and social justice. The tradition persists, but today it is an explosive agent in a time of intense global contest.

The student member of the elite and a potential future leader—becomes a prime target of opportunities of right or left intent on power.

In the intellectual violence around the world, there are several types of students involved.

One is "the perennial student." Often he is a communist. Often he is in his 30s or older, but he styles himself "youth leader."

Then there is the captive student.

In many Asian, African and Latin-American countries a lofty minority of young intellectuals made themselves the backbone of extremist strength. They are persuaded to believe themselves on a rampage against their elders, that they are members of the elite which will rule because, unlike its elders, it knows all the answers in advance.

What these students do in reality is submit to regimentation. They march stolidly through city streets, paded by strutting, self-important and often overage student leaders. In a non-communist dictatorship, tame students are herded into street demonstrations to chant prefabricated phrases. In communist dictatorships, when a government wants to make propaganda from some development such as the recent Congo events, "spontaneous" demonstrations break out almost on command. Police are myopic until the show has served its purpose.

Finally, there are the frustrated students. In many countries they have genuine, or what they believe to be genuine, grievances. They face the frustration of living in countries so backward that real democracy is a dream.

Regional Demos Gain Seniority

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UPI) — Rocky mountain Democratic senators will gain strength and seniority in the 89th congress convening next month.

The eight mountain states will send 10 Democrats and six Republicans to the senate, compared with 9-7 in 1963-64. The numerical change results from the election of Joseph M. Montoya, D., N. M., to succeed a Republican, Edwin L. Mechem.

Democrats from the region will retain several committee and subcommittee chairmanships and move up the seniority ladder on other committees.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D., Mont., will accept another term as majority leader if elected. No potential rival for Mansfield has been announced although contests are brewing for the assistant leadership.

The once-reluctant Mansfield has grown fond of his leadership job, which includes running the Democratic policy and steering committees. He also serves on the foreign relations committee.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D., N. M., is expected to remain as chairman of the aeronautical and space sciences committee. He also is a ranking member of the joint atomic energy and interior committees.

The dean of the congress, Sen. Carl Hayden, D., Ariz., will continue as chairman of the appropriations committee. Hayden, a member of congress for a half-century, also serves on the interior and rules committees and heads the joint committee on printing.

Sen. Alan Bible, D., Nev., plans to continue as chairman of the District of Columbia committee, and as a member of the interior and appropriations committees.

Three westerners who won election to second terms are expected to retain their committee assignments. They are:

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D., Nev., on armed services, space, commerce and rules and administration.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D., Utah, chairman of the interior irrigation—reclamation subcommittee;

Sen. Gale McGee, D., Wyo., chairman of a special commerce subcommittee investigating procedures of the power commission, chairman of a civil services retirement subcommittee, and members of the appropriations committee.

Montoya, who was a member of the house appropriations committee, is anxious to get on the comparable senate committee.

Sen.-elect Paul J. Fanhin, R., Ariz., who will replace Sen. Barry Goldwater, hopes to be named to the interior committee.

Sen. Lee Metcalf, D., Mont., who plans to continue on public works, hopes to transfer from labor and public welfare to interior.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R., Utah, is the ranking Republican on the banking and currency committee and a member of the finance, atomic energy and defense production committees.

Current committee assignment of other western senators include:

Sen. Milward L. Simpson, R., Wyo., banking and currency and interior.

Sen. Frank Church, D., Ida., foreign relations and interior.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R., Ida., interior, labor and economic.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R., Colo., appropriations and interior.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R., Colo., interior, banking and currency, and District of Columbia.

Death Takes G. W. Gill At Age of 75

WENDELL, Dec. 14—George W. Gill, 75, died Sunday at Magic Valley Manor, Wendell. He has been a guest at the manor for five months.

He was born Aug. 14, 1889, at Garfield, Wash., and came to Hill City with his parents when he was 18. He had farmed and ranched all his life in this area and was the partner of H. C. Martin, Twin Falls.

For the last four winters he had lived in Twin Falls. He was a member of the Twin Falls First Baptist church.

He was preceded in death by two brothers, Charles Gill and Edward Gill.

Survivors include a brother, William H. Gill, Richfield and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Gooding Baptist church by the Rev. Paul B. Winkler, Shoshone. Concluding rites will be conducted in Elmwood cemetery. Friends may call at the Weaver mortuary, Wendell, from 1 p.m. Tuesday until Wednesday noon, and then from 1 p.m. until time of services in Gooding.

2 Dentists Die in Utah Plane Crash

OGDEN, Dec. 14 (UPI) — Two Ogden dentists were killed when their light plane crashed at low altitude and burned on the west shore of the Great Salt Lake yesterday.

They were Drs. Richard D. Hendrickson, and George B. Vogel, jr., both 36, who were hunting coyotes.

The charred wreckage of their Super Piper Cub, rented from the Thunderbird Flying Service, Ogden, was found about 7 p.m. on the lake shore, about 40 air miles west of Hill air force base. They had left about noon and were expected to return before dusk.

Ed Rich of the flying service said he and a companion began looking for the men when they failed to return. He spotted the burning wreckage on the lake shore and called Hill air force base for a helicopter.

An H21 helicopter flew to the wreckage and recovered the bodies. Both men were qualified pilots and it was unknown who was flying at the time of the accident.

Rich said the plane apparently was flying very low and may have stalled, causing it to plow into the salt beach at an angle. He said when he first spotted the flames he thought the men may have survived the crash and were signaling for help. The helicopter crew found the men burned inside the smouldering aircraft.

The plane crashed about two miles east of Carrington Island on the mud flats.

Reds Get Unwitting Assists From U. S., Loyal Vietnamese

SAIGON, Dec. 14 (UPI) — The communists get many unwitting assists in their effort to take over South Viet Nam.

The backhanded assists come from Americans and loyal Vietnamese alike. They illustrate some of the things the United States and its Vietnamese allies have to contend with in trying to win the war against the communists.

Here are some typical incidents:

A Vietnamese woman beats her servant in a village near Dalat. Three nights later a Viet Cong communist delegation visits the village, and forces the woman to kneel and publicly apologize to her servant.

A small group of communist guerrillas make a food raid on a Quang Ngai village. The village authorities radio the nearby Vietnamese army garrison for help. Instead of sending out troops, the buttoned-up garrison fires all artillery barrage into the area. The Viet Cong retreat unscathed. The village suffers three killed and 12 wounded by the "friendly" shelling.

Outnumbered Saigon police battle rioting students outside a Buddhist pagoda. A sweating, exasperated police captain pleads with a brown-robed monk to intercede. A holy man gazes serenely at the sky as the rioters pause and look to him for guidance. The holy man retreats inside the pagoda, and a Mona Lisa smile appears on his face as the battle resumes.

Two battalions of Vietnamese troops — nearly 1,500 men — move down a road in the Mekong Delta. A light machinegun fires from an ambush. The troops take cover in ditches. The lone gun sprays the troops at intervals, moves, sprays another group, each time killing and wounding the ground-hugging troops. An American adviser shouts orders, screams at the Vietnamese, begs them to counterattack the lone gun. No one moves. He runs about attempting to prod them into doing something besides lying there waiting to be killed. But no one follows him, and all he gets is a burst of enemy fire for his efforts. He swears disgustedly and takes cover. Four hours later the Reds exhaust their ammunition and withdraw. The troops reform their column, attend the dead and wounded and move down the road.

A district chief with powerful friends in Saigon and a Hitler complex misuses his power and lays a harsh rule upon his area. The villagers complain repeatedly to higher authorities, but receive only a shrug of the shoulders. The communist Viet Cong capture the chief in a pre-dawn raid, hold him prisoner for a week and then execute him after a public trial. The district chief appointed by Saigon governs well.

A shiny American car moves slowly through a crowded Saigon street; its Vietnamese driver rides the horn incessantly. In the rear seat two American officers loll majestically. "See," says a scowling youth on a corner, "just like the arrogant French." The group with him nods in agreement.

A helicopter loaded with Vietnamese soldiers lands at a remote beleaguered outpost. The soldiers are told to get out. No one moves. The American sergeant repeats his order. The terrified troops shake their heads and refuse to move. The burly American grabs them one by one and kicks them out the door. The reinforcements for Outpost 30 have arrived.

The American in civilian clothes reaches across the bar and tenderly caresses the Vietnamese girl's hand. "Sorry, honey," he says in a low voice. "I won't be able to see you tonight, we're moving some troops down to the delta early in the morning." Later the girl makes a low-voiced phone call in Vietnamese. In the morning the convoy is ambushed, three trucks destroyed and several soldiers killed or wounded by the communists. The American tells his friends: "Those VC (Viet Cong) sure got good intelligence. I wonder how they find out things."

Area Grange Plans Party For Holiday

WENDELL, Dec. 14 — The annual Christmas party for Orchard Valley Grange will be held at the Grange hall Friday. There will be a gift exchange.

Joe Sellers, master, appointed the home economics committee to be in charge of the Christmas treats and all members were asked to bring popcorn balls.

A cooked food sale was planned. The sale will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Marlow's market.

Action was taken to sell the old school desks in the Grange hall. One of the two gas heaters belonging to the Grange has been sold and the other one is for sale.

The master appointed Melvin Gibson as legislative chairman; Frank Orth, agricultural chairman; Omer Schmidt, membership and Howard Mecum, community service.

Gibson reported that the next legislature plans to make an increase in the state budget.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Harley Williams.

Sixty Attend Farewell Dinner

BUHL, Dec. 14 — Some 60 persons attended a fellowship dinner and harvest shower given in honor of the pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Dwight Wilcher, and farewell observance for Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hobson, who are moving to Boise, at the First Methodist church in Buhl.

A covered dish dinner was here following the Sunday morning worship services and the afternoon was spent socially, interspersed with group singing.

INSTANT SEATS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UPI) — Eleven of the nation's airlines have combined their electronic reservations systems to give passengers instant seat availability no matter which carrier they are contacting.

Grange Holds Yule Party

PAUL, Dec. 14 — The annual Christmas party was held Thursday evening for members of the Pioneer Grange.

George Sullivan welcomed the members in the absence of John McGill, master, who was ill with the flu.

The Christmas prayer was given by Mrs. Joseph Avelor, chaplain. John McGill, jr., presented a magic box act and Ken Patterson gave a recitation.

Trio selections were sung by Anita Dallollo, Carma Dallollo and Billie Dallollo accompanied by Aldo Dallollo; and Robbie Lloyd, Rusty Lloyd and Tammie Lloyd. Carolyn Klamm played a piano solo.

Duets were sung by Janet Giraud and Gale Giraud; and Kelly Patterson and Michael Patterson. Mrs. Willard Haywood and Russell Patterson presented readings.

A candlelight ceremony depicting the Christmas 10 commandments was presented by 10 members of the Grange. Mrs. Maurice Giraud played the accordion.

Mrs. George Sullivan provided the decorated tree and candy containers with the Santa motif for the children. She assisted Santa Claus in distributing gifts for the children.

Refreshments were served by the home economics committee. No meeting will be held until January.

Scout Patrol Leaders Conduct Training Meet

The first junior leading training conference for junior Boy Scout patrol leaders and junior assistant Scoutmasters was held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday in the Boy Scout building for Scouts of the Snake River area council. The boys ranged in age from 12 to 18.

Films entitled "So Now You're a Patrol Leader," "Meeting With Your Patrol," "Advancement in the Patrol" and "Patrol Leaders Council in Action" stimulated discussions for the group of about 63 Scouts.

Leadership of meetings and planning presentations for the group's topics followed the four films.

Parties Set

CAREY, Dec. 14 — Christmas parties, both for children and adults in the community, are planned for Saturday, Dec. 19, at the Crafers Coffee shop, report Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Starr, owners.

Santa Claus will arrive at 1 p.m. to distribute treats to the children. Hot dogs and soft drinks will be served free. The adult party will be held at 8:30 p.m. with special prizes to be given.

Christmas Party Is Held by Bank

KING HILL, Dec. 14 — Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. King, King Hill, attended the annual Christmas party at Hansen's cafe in Glenns Ferry Saturday night, sponsored by the Glenns Ferry bank, for their employes and directors.

Employes from the Grand View bank and the Kuna bank also attended.

EX-RESIDENT DIES

KING HILL, Dec. 14 — Word has been received here of the death of Johnnie Becker, Dover, Ida. Mr. Becker was former King Hill resident.

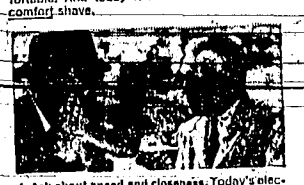
How to buy an electric shaver for Christmas

1. Make up your mind to break the uncomfortable shave habit. No man should put up with a shave that's irritating or unpleasant day after day. Shaving should be convenient and comfortable. And today it's — with the Norelco comfort shave.

2. Talk to your dealer about electric shavers. He'll show you several brands. Most of them have blades which go back and forth. He'll point out that only Norelco Speedshavers have self-sharpening rotary blades which go round and round.

3. Take a good look at those rotary blades. They're the secret behind the comfort shave. They whirl continuously — never "grab" the way ordinary shavers do, never cut or nick the way blades do — give a pinch-free, scrape-free comfort shave year in, year out.



4. Ask about speed and closeness. Today's electric shavers all shave fast and with about the same degree of closeness. The most important difference is in the comfort they give. Norelco rotary blades can easily make the difference between enjoying your morning shave or enduring it.

5. P. S. for the women. Did you know that women buy over half the electric shavers sold in this country to give to their menfolk, mostly at Christmas? It's a fact. Another fact: Norelco 'Flip-Top' is the world's largest-selling shaver model — give a Norelco, and you can be sure he'll like it.

6. Select your Norelco. New Norelco 'Floating Head' Speedshaver 30 — self-cleaning blades, hands swivel to fit your face. New Norelco 'Flip-Top' Speedshaver® 20 — easy 'flip-top' cleaning. New Norelco Cordless Speedshaver 20C — shaves anywhere. All have rotary blades. All give the comfort shave.

MARKETS AND FINANCE

Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—The stock market closed lower today with a pickup in trading.

The list was higher at the start, turned mixed and headed lower late in the day.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.2 million shares compared with 4.54 million Friday.

Gains and losses of key stocks went from fractions to around a point generally.

Among winter movers, Comsat spurted about three points, making a new high in very active dealings. U. S. Smelting and American-South African Investment gained more than two.

Among other golds, Homestake rose more than a point and McIntyre Porcupine a fraction.

General Motors, up more than a point, was outstanding in an otherwise soft auto group. Slight losses were taken by Ford, Studebaker and American Motors. Chrysler was unchanged.

Lukens Steel, up about two, was a big gainer among steels which turned irregularly lower following a small early rise. Losses were mostly fractional.

DuPont and Woolworth were off a point. Xerox—more than that. Motorola slipped more than a point despite its higher-cash dividend and plans for a 50 per cent stock dividend.

Gains of a point or so were made by Eastern Gas and Fuel, Continental Oil, Consolidated Cigar, ABC-Paramount, Colanese, Sinclair Oil and Interstate Department Stores.

Down a point or more were Beckman Instruments, Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Export Lines and Air Control, Bucyrus-Erie slipped nearly two.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed in quiet trading. U.S. government bonds edged downward on light dealings over the counter.

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. My husband will retire in a few months. We own several stocks which pay reasonable dividends. We also have some Travelers Insurance company stock, on which the dividend is low. My husband feels we should now buy additional shares of Travelers, because its price is now low.

I believe we should invest in a stock which will pay good dividends for retirement income, which we can well use. With which of us do you agree?

Doyle

A. When you say you "can well use more retirement income," I assume you mean that you really will need more money. If that's the case, I agree very much with you.

If you buy more Travelers Insurance stock now, the dividend income you would receive would be mighty low. Based on its recent market prices, you would pay about $43 a share. The annual dividend rate on that stock is now 50 cents a share. That works out to a "current yield" (dividend divided by market price) or just about 1.2 per cent.

Anyone who needs income can do much better, elsewhere.

We all know that Travelers has a fine record of increasing its dividend payments. The dividend payout on this stock is now almost three times what it was 10 years ago.

But, if you will need higher income soon, low-yielding stocks such as Travelers are hardly suitable new investments for you.

I'm not suggesting that you sell the Travelers stock you already own. You might consider that at some future time (and put the proceeds into a higher-yielding situation) if you find yourself in need of still more income.

Now, sometime in the future (if Travelers continues to go up in market price, as it has in the past) your husband may say, "See what silly advice you got."

That's not the point. Retired people who need more income should put their money where it will produce a reasonable current yield—not potential gain for the future.

I have been told that a lot of mutual funds went out of business when former President Eisenhower had his heart attack. Is this true?

A. No. You are, no doubt, referring to the "heart attack break" in the stock market, Monday, Sept. 9, 1955—the first day on which the market was open for business after President Eisenhower was stricken.

Stock prices dropped sharply that day—as they often do when something happens to a national or world leader. It shouldn't be necessary to point out what happened to stock prices on the fateful day President Kennedy was assassinated.

When the market prices of stocks fall, the asset value per share of mutual funds falls. A fund's per share asset value is the actual dollars-and-cents value behind each share in assets. And those assets are securities—mostly stocks.

Mutual fund per share asset values went down at the time of the heart attack break. But no mutual funds went broke or out of business as a result. Someone is either kidding you or trying to scare you away from mutual funds.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Down in Wall Street they're beginning to look a bit wistfully for that year-end rally in stocks that sentimentalists like to consider as traditional as Santa's sleigh.

Sam Dawson

Ever since the middle of November stock prices have been doing more slipping than rallying. There are still 13 more trading days, counting today, when stocks may well shape up and vindicate the traditionalists.

But at the close of Friday's trading the list was down to about where it was in the middle of September and well below the records the popular averages touched briefly just a month ago.

Some see the present market as chiefly reflecting the usual December problems. There is considerable selling of issues that have had a bad year to take losses for 1964 income-tax purposes.

There also has been some pressure on prices of the sturdier issues from selling to take profits now when it's possible to offset them on income tax returns by losses incurred during the year.

But some brokers, although admitting the technical nature of much of this month's trading, think many of their customers are worried by a string of disturbing news items of late, and by a larger than usual parcel of year-end uncertainties at home and abroad.

And there also is human nature that makes stock traders nervous because the averages have fallen so far from the November highs.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped from its record 891.71 of Nov. 18 to 864.43 December 1. It rallied a bit but slipped again and Dec. 11 closed at 864.34.

Profit-taking and tax-loss selling couldn't account for all of that drop. The uncertainties range from the increasing troubles in Viet Nam to the new regime in communist Russia, from the course President De Gaulle of France may take to Britain's latest financial crisis to a New Labor government takes power.

At home there has been a slowdown in parts of the economy, charged in large part to auto strikes, but there also have been doubts about the course of the U.S. economy in 1965 with most predictions calling for a slower rate of growth. Industry is expected to expand, but not quite as fast. Profits are supposed to rise, but more modestly.

But the bulls are stressing that the administration and congress may not sit idly by if a slowdown occurs. Another nudge to the economy might come from further tax cuts, or from more government spending for civilian projects.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Edward F. Underwood of Mitchum, Jones and Templeton, Inc., believes that a very difficult market lies ahead but, despite this, the market continues to be a most attractive repository for investment funds.

Clar, Dodge and company Inc., believes that the bottom of the current reaction is within touching distance.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton and company, Inc., says that unless the internal structure of the market has deteriorated more than one might suspect, conditions seem to be propitious for at least a technical rally at this point.

Giardello 9-5 Favorite Over Carter in First Defense of His Crown

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14 (AP) —Middleweight champion Joey Giardello makes the first defense of his title as a 9-5 favorite over hard-hitting Rubin (Hurricane) Carter at Convention hall Monday night. This is Giardello's home town, although he lives in Cherry Hills, N. J., and promoter Jimmy Riggio optimistically predicts a crowd of about 9,000 and a gross gate of $150,000. If the show draws $100,000, it could be called a smash success. There will be no television of the 15-rounder. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Giardello, a veteran of 10 years of pro battling, won the championship of the 160-pound division by outpointing the favored ruler, Dick Tiger of Nigeria, at Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 7, 1963.

He was all set to battle Carter at Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 23, but that fell through when the promoters failed to come up with the cash to cover the fighters' guarantees.

Without any television or theater-television backing, Giardello's purse will depend on his own following. He will collect 60 per cent of the gross gate. Carter of Paterson, N. J., receives a flat $12,000 and the shot at the crown.

The match itself is an old story of the ring—age and experience against youth and skill against rock.

Giardello has the skill, savvy and a strong jaw. Carter, 27, has lots of muscles, a jolting left hook and the hunger of the challenger for the title.

Carter, now the No. 2 contender, has a 26-4 record, including 13 knockouts. But all of his knockouts have been scored in five rounds or less.

Giardello, winner of his last seven scraps in a 25-month span, has a 05-22-11 record, including 32 knockouts.

Unless Carter catches up with Joey by the fifth round, his chances for an upset are slim. The Jersey Joltor is a walk-in fighter, who aims to belt out his foes with one flashing swing. Usually Giardello eats up that kind of a fighter.

Tiger stalked Giardello for 15 rounds and was soundly cuffed for his aggressiveness.

And, for all of his fierce looks and mounds of muscles, Carter's ability to take it hasn't been certified by the experts. Joe Gonzales stopped him in six and normally light-hitting Gomeo Brennan had his on dream street for a while with a right to the jaw.

Giardello has been stopped only three times in his long career, in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds. Spider Webb was the last to accomplish the feat. He did it in seven on Nov. 19, 1958.

Scoring will be the five-point system, whereby the winner of each round gets five points and the loser four or less. The eight count will be mandatory for knockdowns. Any fighter floored three times in a round will be the loser by technical knockout.

Plum Helps Lead Lions Over 49ers

DETROIT, Dec. 14 (AP)—Two long scoring pass plays from Milt Plum to Jim Gibbons enabled the Detroit Lions to score a season-ending 24-7 National Football league victory over the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

Plum and Gibbons combined on a 64-yard scoring play early

	49ers	Lions
First downs	17	12
Rushing yardage	80	100
Passing yardage	197	237
Passes	22-41	11-22
Passes intercepted by	2	0
Punts	9-42	6-45
Fumbles lost	0	1
Yards penalized	80	0

in the first quarter, then clicked again for 82 yards with less than three minutes remaining in the game. The latter touchdown was the only Detroit score of the second half.

Tommy Watkins returned a punt 68 yards for a Detroit touchdown less than two minutes after Wayne Walker booted a 21-yard field goal in the second quarter.

The 49ers, who were stopped deep in their own territory most of the first half, finally scored on a 13-yard pass from John Brodie to Dave Parks on the last play of the third quarter.

Detroit staged only one long drive in the last two quarters before Plum's second touchdown toss.

Bills Grab Division Lead In 30-19 Tilt

DENVER, Dec. 14 (AP)—Buffalo, stingy on defense and alert at every offensive chance, grabbed sole possession of the Eastern division lead by walloping Denver 30-19 in an American Football league game Sunday.

The Bills, now 11-2 and facing a showdown next Sunday against

	Bills	Broncos
First downs	13	7
Rushing yardage	157	47
Passing yardage	64	84
Passes	4-11	15-31
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	8-34	10-37
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	16	85

Boston, 10-2-1, piled up a 23-3 halftime lead that withstood Denver's second half comeback.

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica put Buffalo ahead early. He pitched a 46-yard scoring pass to Ed Rutkowski for the first touchdown and contributed a 23-yard touchdown run late in the second period after dodging Denver's blitzing linemen on a pass play.

Denver rallied for two third-quarter touchdowns that narrowed the gap to 23-16 and Dick Guesman's 48-yard field goal cut Buffalo's margin to four points.

With two minutes to play, Lamonica sneaked a yard for Buffalo's clinching touchdown.

Porfido Wins By Five Lengths

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 14 (AP) — Favored Porfido circled outside on the final bend and pulled to a five-length lead to win Sunday's 1 1/16-mile feature race at Turf Paradise.

The 7-year-old chestnut horse, ridden by Eddie Burns, covered the distance in 1:41 3-5, just one-fifth second off the track record. The winner paid $3.50, 2.40 and 2.20.

Oilers Snap Nine-Game Loss Streak

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 14 (AP)—The Houston Oilers snapped a nine-game losing streak Sunday with a 33-17 victory over the New York Jets in an American Football league game.

The Jets, who were losing their sixth consecutive game on the road, failed to score the entire second half.

The Oilers had lighted up the scoreboard four of the five times they had possession the first half to take a 10-17 halftime lead.

Rookie halfback Sid Blanks, who marked the best day of his young pro career with 91 yards rushing on 21 carries, scored with 4:26 left in the final period to put the game out of reach of New York.

The scoring drive had been set up by Freddy Glick who intercepted a pass tossed by Jet quarterback Mike Taliaferro.

Morris Injured During Game

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Flanker Johnny Morris suffered a possible broken collarbone in the second period Sunday of the Chicago Bears-Minnesota Vikings National Football league game.

The Bears' star, whose 93 pass receptions set an NFL season record, was hospitalized for X-rays and treatment.

Englehorn, Snead Win Golf Tourney

BEBRING, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP) — Shirley Engelhorn bagged two eagles Sunday and with her partner, Sam Snead, fired a seven-under-par 65 to win the 40,000 Scotch mixed foursome golf tournament.

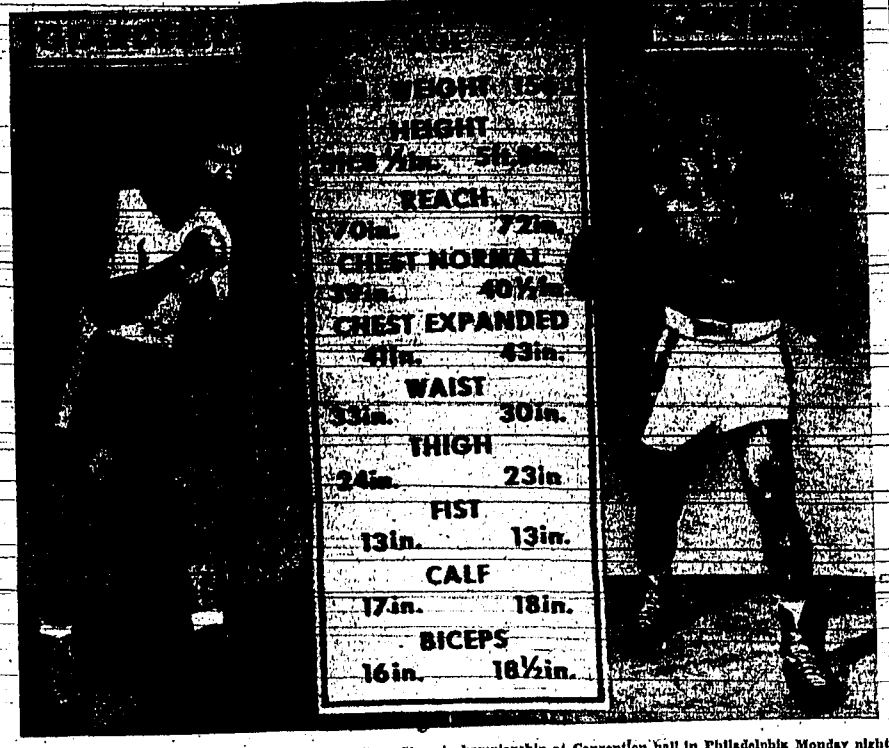
Shirley's last eagle, made with a 25-foot putt at the 17th hole, gave the team a 16-under-par total of 272 and staved off a fierce last-round challenge by Dow Finsterwald and Marlene Hagge, who also shot a 65 for 273.

It was a day of sensational shots. On the 11th hole, Snead the indestructible 52-year-old senior citizen of pro golf, lashed a 300-yard drive and Shirley chipped in from 50 yards away for an eagle duce.

They played just behind Finsterwald and Marlene, who were hitting eight birdies in a sweet round and in competition for the $5,600 top prize until Miss Englehorn dropped her final putt for par on the 18th green.

Mason Rudolph and Kathy Whitworth, who finished Saturday's third round in a tie for the lead with Snead and Miss Englehorn, slumped to a one-over-par 73 in the final round and dropped into a tie for seventh at 280.

But the 30-year-old Rudolph, eighth leading money winner on the 1964 pro tour, kept intact his record of in-the-money tournament finishes which now stands at 52 straight.



COMPARATIVE MEASUREMENTS are shown for Joey Giardello and Rubin Carter who will battle for the middleweight championship at Convention hall in Philadelphia Monday night. (AP wirephoto)

Chiefs Hand San Diego 49-6 Defeat

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP) —Veteran quarterback Len Dawson passed to halfback Frank Jackson for four touchdowns Sunday as the Kansas City Chiefs handed the San Diego Chargers their worst beating, 49-6.

Jackson, a favorite target for Dawson, tied an American Football league record for a single game with the four touchdown receptions. This equals the mark set by Art Powell of the Oakland Raiders against Houston Dec. 22, 1963.

Dawson's touchdown passes to Jackson were for 64, 5, 21 and 2 yards. He completed his first 11 passes and finished the day with 17 for 26 and 220 yards in the air.

Dawson, who leads AFL passers, has thrown for 28 touchdowns this season.

This marked the third time in 13 meetings since the two have been in the AFL that the Chiefs have beaten the Chargers. The Chargers, whose record is now 8-4-1, have already clinched the Western division title.

Packers Survive Rams' First-Half Lead to Tie 24-24, Gain Playoff Bowl

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers survived a spectacular first half by Los Angeles and came on to score two touchdowns in the last Quarter Sunday to tie the Rams 24-24, good enough to send the Packers to the Playoff Bowl next month. The Ram rookie combination of quarterback Bill Munson and Bucky Pope combined on a 95-yard touchdown pass play for the opening score, added another seven points less than three minutes later and Los Angeles enjoyed a 21-7 lead at halftime.

But seasoned Bart Starr, the tremendous running of Jimmy Taylor and workman-like precision in the final half produced a field goal and 14 points to bring on the deadlock.

	Packers	Rams
First downs	22	12
Rushing yardage	213	115
Passing yardage	151	113
Passes	15-28	8-16
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	3-43	6-49
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	20	10

The tie left the Packers tied with Minnesota for second place. But in the point-battle during the season between Green Bay and the Vikings, Green Bay defeated Minnesota by 29 points, and lost by one point.

Thus Green Bay plays St. Louis in the Playoff Bowl in Miami Jan. 3.

Paul Hornung, who had one field goal attempt blocked and missed two others from 43 and 13 yards, finally booted one 27 yards in the third quarter to pull Green Bay up to 21-10.

Satrr directed Green Bay 62 yards in 12 plays, passing the last five to Boyd Dowler to draw closer, 24-17.

And with two minutes left, the Packers marched 57 yards in eight maneuvers, Taylor blasting over from the one. Hornung's conversion tied the game.

Green Bay paraded 76 yards in its first serious thrust early in the game. But it ended when Frank Budka intercepted a pass by Hornung on the Rams' seven.

Rookie Les Josephson, who later was to be the great ground gainer for Los Angeles, lost two. Munson then faded into the end zone, found Pope about 25 yards toward the Packers' side of the field and the Catawba Claw took off. He fought off Herb Adderly and Willie Wood in the final 15 yards and went on in.

Starr moments later fumbled the handback from center and Gary Larsen recovered for Los Angeles on the Green Bay 24. Pope on a double reverse rambled 17, Josephson went up the middle for seven and Ben Wilson scored from the one.

Brown-Led Vikings Bury Bears 41-14

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Minnesota Vikings, led by Bill Brown's three touchdowns, buried the Chicago Bears 41-14 Sunday to close the worst losing season for a George Halas team in a 45-year National Football league history. The Bears skidded from the NFL 1963 championship season to a 5-9 record, absorbing the most league defeats of any Bear team. The Vikings ended 8-5-1.

The Bears were pitifully-inept Sunday and injuries plagued them to the end. Frankie Johnny Morris, who set NFL pass-catching records during the campaign went out with an arm injury in the second quarter. Safety Rich Petitbon also was a casualty. Quarterback Rudy Bukich, who had won a starting role from Bill Wade, missed the game with a shoulder separation.

	Vikings	Bears
First down	22	9
Rushing yardage	210	47
Passing yardage	152	135
Passes	7-15	11-34
Passes intercepted by	3	1
Punts	1-45	6-41
Fumbles lost	0	0
Yards penalized	25	7

The Vikings, clicking methodically behind Brown, Frank Tarkenton and Tom Mason, rolled to a 31-0 halftime lead while holding the Bears to a total gain of 19 yards.

Runs of 47 yards by Brown and Tarkenton's 22-yard pass to Mason set up the first touchdown, with Brown going over from the one.

Fred Cox, who booted field goals of 15 and 32 yards, kicked the first of his five extra points.

Karl Kassulke stole Wade's pass on the Bear 40 and eight plays later Mason went over from the one. Tarkenton's 18-yard run set it up.

The Vikings scored three more times in the second quarter. Cox contributed a 15-yard field goal, Tarkenton hit Brown for a 20-yard touchdown pass, and Rip Hawkins ran 99 yards with a Wade interception.

Colts Wind Up Season With Victory

BALTIMORE, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Western conference champion Baltimore Colts wound up the regular season Sunday with a 45-17 victory over the Washington Redskins, getting National Football league record breaking performances from Lenny Moore and Raymond Berry.

Moore's two short runs for touchdowns in the last quarter gave him 20 this season, one more than the old mark set by Jim Taylor of Green Bay in 1962. It also was the 18th game in which Moore scored, another NFL high.

	Redskins	Colts
First downs	8	31
Rushing yardage	66	118
Passing yardage	154	319
Passes	13-23	16-24
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	8-43	3-42
Fumbles lost	2	4
Yards penalized	116	47

Berry caught five passes, one for a 30-yard touchdown to raise his career reception total to 506, three more than the record held by Bill Howton. Berry has played 10 years in the NFL.

Both the Colts and Moore finished as league scoring leaders over Cleveland and its placekicker, Lou Groza. The Colts and Browns meet in the championship game Dec. 27.

Moore's 120 points were five more than Groza scored while the team total of 428 topped Cleveland by 13.

The Colts overcame a rash of fumbles and a costly pass interception for their last triumph. They lost the ball four times on fumbles.

Meredith-Led Dallas Edges Pittsburgh

DALLAS, Dec. 14 (AP)—Although Don Meredith had a bruised hand and battered shoulder he passed Dallas to a 17-14 victory over Pittsburgh Sunday to give the Cowboys fifth place in the National Football league Eastern conference.

A 10-yard field goal by Dick Van Raaphorst was the actual margin of victory but Buddy Dial, playing against his old teammates at Pittsburgh, also had a big share in the victory that closed the season on a happy note for the erratic Cowboys.

	Steelers	Cowboys
First downs	13	17
Rushing yardage	76	96
Passing yardage	147	177
Passes	9-22	14-29
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	6-45	6-38
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	10	74

Dial set up a field goal and a touchdown with his pass-receiving.

Ed Brown had two touchdown shots for Pittsburgh; throwing three yards to Dick Hoak for one and 36 yards to Gary Ballman for the other.

Dallas led all the way, getting 10 points in the first period and waiting until the last period for its final and winning touchdown.

Bakken's Field Goal Gives Cards Victory

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—Jim Bakken's fifth field goal, a 19-yarder with 22 seconds remaining, gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 30-34 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in a National Football league game Sunday. In taking out their disappointment at finishing second to the Cleveland Browns in the Eastern division, the Cardinals also cost the Eagles undisputed possession of third place. The Eagles, 6-6, finished tied with Washington, which lost to Baltimore 45-17.

The Cardinals appeared beaten when Bakken missed a 53-yard field goal with less than two minutes remaining. But Ollie Matson fumbled as the Eagles tried to run out the clock and Don Brumm recovered for the Cardinals on Philadelphia's 22, setting up Bakken's kick.

	Eagles	Cards
First downs	22	22
Rushing yardage	140	148
Passing yardage	261	271
Passes	15-31	28-49
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	6-46	3-35
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	74	55

Bakken's five field goals tied an NFL record for a game. Bakken also broke Cardinal records by scoring 115 points in a season and kicking 52 straight extra points.

The Cardinals had held the Eagles scoreless in the second half after a wild first half and led 33-27 until Norm Snead connected on three passes for 46 yards. This set up Earl Gros' one-yard touchdown plunge with four minutes remaining.

The teams took turns intercepting passes, recovering fumbles and hitting on long passes in the loosely-played first half that ended with St. Louis leading 30-27.

The 47 points in the second period broke the NFL record of 41 for one period and the last 16 points came in the final minute and 51 seconds.

The halftime statistics looked like final totals as Johnson completed 18 of 32 passes for 276 yards and Snead connected 8 of 15 times for 206 yards.

Johnson finished the game with 28 completions in 49 attempts for 371 yards. Snead completed 15 passes in 31 attempts for 301.

THERE'S A GIANT IN TODAY'S PAPER!

In fact there is more than one. There are a couple of hundred of them, and they are the smallest giants you ever saw.

Each one of them is in the paper to do an important job, and each one of them works with super strength to get that job done.

These are the little giants of advertising, the Want Ads. Each year over 300 million of them are born in the newspapers of North America. Their lives are short, because they do their jobs quickly and disappear.

The little giants are waiting to work for you. You can hire one for as little as 53c per day, and it will do any one of hundreds of useful jobs, jobs which can be done no other way. Read the Want Ads and see what they are doing for your neighbors.

It is very easy to put a Want Ad to work. Simply pick up your phone and call 733-0931 and ask for an ad-visor. A friendly, well trained person will help you word and place your ad.

One thing we see in our intelligent children is that they are intensely involved with life. These children act as if they thought the universe made some sense. They check their answers and their thoughts against common sense, while other children, not expecting answers to make sense, not knowing what is sense, see no point in checking, no way of checking. Yet the difference may go deeper than this. It seems as if what we call intelligent children feel that the universe can be trusted, even when it does not seem to make any sense, that even when you don't understand it you can be fairly sure that it is not going to play dirty tricks on you. How close this is in spirit to the remark of Einstein's, "I cannot believe that God plays dice with the universe."

In the July, 1958, Scientific American in the article, "Profile of Creativity," there is the following apt comparison:

"The creative scientist analyzes a problem slowly and carefully, then proceeds rapidly with a solution. The less creative man is apt to flounder in disorganized attempts to get a quick answer."

Indeed he is! How often have we seen our answer-grabbers get into trouble. The fact that problems and answers are simply different ways of looking at a relationship, a structure, an order. A problem is a picture with a piece missing; the answer is the missing piece. The children who take time to see and feel and grip the problem, soon find that the answer is there. The ones who get in trouble are the ones who see a problem as an order to start running at top speed from a given starting point, in an unknown direction, to an unknown destination. They dash after the answer before they have considered the problem. What's their big hurry?

The good thinker takes his time and looks at the problem. Is this difference merely a matter of a skill in thought, a technique which, with ingenuity and luck, we might teach and train into children? I'm afraid not. The good thinker can take his time because he can tolerate uncertainty, he can stand not knowing. The poor thinker can't stand not knowing; it drives him crazy.

This cannot be completely explained by the fear of being wrong. No doubt this fear puts, say, Monica under heavy pressure; but Hal is under the same pressure, and maybe I am as well. Monica is not alone in wanting to be right and fearing to be wrong. What is involved here is another insecurity, the insecurity of not having any answer to a problem. Monica wants the right answer, yes; but what she wants, first of all, is an answer, any old answer, and she will do almost anything to get some kind of answer. Once she gets it, a large part of the pressure is off.

Children like this can't stand a problem without a solution, even if they know that their solution will probably be wrong. This panicky search for certainty, this inability to tolerate unanswered questions and unsolved problems seems to lie at the heart of many problems of intelligence.

(NEXT: The Destruction of Intelligence.)

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

by STELLA

MONDAY, Dec. 14—Born today, you are conservative by nature—even in the midst of nonconservative activity. For this reason, you may often fight an inner battle as you attempt to fit your instincts to your activities. Actually, the real difficulty is a certain timidity, a certain fear of change, a certain mistrust of progress even as you work toward it yourself.

Having a nature as complex as yours requires first of all that you learn to know yourself. Until you fully understand the workings of your heart and mind, you can hardly ask others to do so. Yet you are fortunate, for you have the kind of personality that attracts people, that makes them want to help you, to go that extra mile toward understanding you.

You are emotionally stable, but at the same time you need someone to lean on. You would not be happy living alone, a fact which, since you are so complex, makes a wise choice of an understanding marriage partner imperative. Here especially must you guard against mistaking a feeling of timidity for conservatism. You may need someone more progressive and outgoing than you think!

Among those born on this date are: George VI of England; Paul Eluard, French poet; James Harold Doolittle, noted American World war II general.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, Dec. 15

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — All things considered, this should be a day worth remembering. Decide early in the day in which activity you'll make your mark.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — A bird in the hand is worth more than two in the bush. A day for counting your blessings and being satisfied.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Don't underestimate the determination of the soft-spoken, courteous colleague. He may not be as willing to back down as you think!

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Let moderation be the prevailing tone of all this day's conversations. Don't say more than you're willing to repeat.

ARIES (March 21-April 20) — No time like the present for beginning to correct faults brought to your attention by a loved one. Seek to please.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Avoid going overboard in the buying department. You might be wise to curtail your list of holiday remembrances.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Use your talents as you see fit. Don't allow any outside interference in scheduling the day's activities.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Keep up appearances regardless of circumstances which might tempt you into an I-don't-care attitude.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Use the wisdom natural generosity and sympathy get out of hand today could end up with the short end of the stick!

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — A day for depending upon yourself. The longer you wait for others to come to your rescue, the worse off you may be.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — The Libra who fails to come through in the pinch, who fails to keep priorities, may find himself at a loss for friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Approach those in authority carefully but determinedly. There's no reason why your demands should not be met if you're tactful.

Financiers Told Not to Buy 3 Bonds

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (UPI) — Wall Street financiers have been asked not to bid on three Mississippi bond issues totaling $32,650,000. The move was revealed yesterday by the executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Roy Wilkins. Wilkins charged money raised on the bonds would be used "in a discriminatory manner."

A memorandum to 50 banks, insurance companies, investment houses and pension funds urged that they not bid on bond issues for the Pearl river water supply bonds tomorrow. The bonds total 24.6 million dollars. Also on the boycott list were two school bond issues totalling eight million, for bidding Wednesday.

But Wall Street opinion was that the appeal would have little effect on the sale. If the bonds are ignored by New York, southern financial houses are expected to snap them up.

The NAACP boycott call followed a suggestion from 1964 Nobel peace prize winner Dr. Martin Luther King that the nation boycott all Mississippi products. King's suggestion came after the dismissal of charges against 21 Mississippians accused in the slaying of three civil rights workers.

The NAACP pointed out in its memorandum that two of the five counties in the Pearl river valley district bordered on neshoba county where the rights workers were murdered.

The memorandum said that "the brutal discrimination visited by Mississippi upon its citizens requires no elaboration.

"Nor does it need to be documented that the money raised by Mississippi borrowing will be spent in a discriminatory way."

Roy Wilkins noted that the 1964 civil rights act required the federal government to end financial aid to states which do not use that aid fairly. He urged "we believe that the private financial community can do no less."

According to the NAACP, the state of Mississippi had a bonded debt of 591.6 million dollars in June, 1963.

Massachusetts Church Burned

HARVARD, Mass., Dec. 14 (UPI) — The 87-year-old Harvard Unitarian church was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin yesterday. State fire marshal officials began an investigation.

Firemen from 14 surrounding communities fought the fire.

Church officials estimated loss at $200,000.

The church fire was the fifth in Massachusetts in the past month. Four churches in Greater Boston were damaged by fire which officials said had been set.

Salinger and Murphy Will Swap Jobs

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP) — California Sen. Pierre Salinger and senator-elect George Murphy are swapping jobs.

Salinger is resigning three days early to go into the movie business.

And old show business pro Murphy is heading for Washington early—to plop into Salinger's senate seat while it's still warm.

Democrat Salinger lost to Republican Murphy in November after a bitter campaign. But—on the altar of seniority, for the good of the golden state — the two yesterday shrugged off old insults.

Salinger called a news conference to say he had finally decided among a host of job offers: Jan. 1 he becomes a vice president of National General corporation, a theater, movie-making and closed-circuit television firm.

And, said Salinger, he was resigning from the senate Dec. 31, and Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown was appointing Murphy to fill the term — which would give Murphy seniority over other freshman senators taking office Jan. 3.

Murphy—who was saying just Nov. 2 "I am tired of Salinger's bad manners and his arrogance" — quickly commended Salinger for his "kind gesture."
